Wilmington's AIM creates family atmosphere

by Jeff Nazzaro

In 1987, when Judy DiPalma coordinated the Wilmington branch of Access is Mandatory (AIM) she envisioned it as "a place where [disabled] people could go where they could meet people and give their spouse or caretaker a break."

But her expectations were exceeded, by far. Somewhere in the six years since, Wilmington's AIM has become a real family.

AIM, with its Tuesday meetings at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wilmington, is a family in the truest sense of the word. It is a place where memories, new ideas, good times and bad, are shared. A place for caring, warmth, support and love. A place that involves fun times with good people.

People like DiPalma, who is afflicted with multiple sclerosis (MS). People like Joe Re, a stroke patient, who "has been coming [to AIM] since it started."

Elinor Silva, a Wilmington Woods Nursing Home patient, has been coming "each week for four months." Silva credits AIM with getting her out of the home. "If it wasn't for [AIM] I'd be a complete shut-in," she said.

AIM is about just that--getting people with disabilities out of their homes and into the positive environment offered at their meetings.

But it is not always so easy. Wilmington's AIM is currently the only social branch of the legislative group in Eastern Massachusetts, so people come from as far away as Bradford to attend the meetings.

Tom Boudreau, an Arlington resident who is trying to start an AIM group in that city, was introduced to AIM meetings by Wilmington resident and amputee Al Aruda thorough the Woburn Rehabilitation Center. Boudreau in turn brings members to Wilmington, including double amputee Peter Ellis and MS patient Chris Colangelo.

"We come because this is the most fun you can have with your clothes on," Ellis joked.

A more serious Colangelo remarked "If not for AIM I honestly don't know how I would get through my weeks." Of the people comprising her AIM family, she said "They're so inspiring. I love each and every one of them."

That includes people such as Gladys Dylinqowski and Mary Quandt, an eighty-year Wilmington resident who has been going to AIM meetings for the past 10 months.

"I think it's just wonderful. Good-natured, healthy socializing," Quandt said, adding that, "You see people worse than you are and they're so happy."

A big part of what makes AIM a happy place to be is the invaluable help provided by volunteers such as Liz Wheeler, who also suffers from epilepsy, and Pat Huber.

"It's helping people," says Huber. "This is what I love to do. Plus," she added, "I love to cook, bake," which she does for the weekly meetings. "It makes me feel good to help people."

From five volunteers and three disabled persons to a total current cast of between 65 and 75 people, AIM continues to extend its' family.

AIM welcomes any and all new members and volunteers, and Silva offers encouragement.

"You don't feel out of place," she said. Disabled persons may have physical therapy "six days a week, but the therapy [from AIM] does so much for you. It lifts your spirits and is so fulfilling. It's such an opportunity for anyone."

Youths offered suspicious ride

by Jeff Nazzaro

A man allegedly offered two Wilmington youths assistance in fixing bicycles they were working on at their Salem Road home near Biggar and Ring Avenues Tuesday afternoon around 2:30 p.m. Wilmington police said.

The children apparently told the man they did not need help, at which point the man persisted, offering to take the children and the bicycles to his home for repairs, according to Wilmington Deputy Police Chief Bernard Nally, who feels the incident "certainly does seem strange."

While Wilmington Police maintain the man did not threaten or attempt to coerce the youths into leaving with him, area residents are nevertheless concerned about the safety of their children.

Wilmington residents' fears are magnified due to reports out of Tewksbury that a man sexually assaulted a 14-year-old boy in that town two weeks ago.

In addition, since the bus stop that previously transported area children to school from the Ring Avenue-Salem Road intersection was curtailed two years ago, school-age youths are forced to walk to both the Woburn Street and North Intermediate schools--an additional worry for parents.

The man drove a light blue car with primer on the driver's side fender and was described by police as a "white male, possibly dark complexion with dark hair and a moustache." The man is believed to be in his thirties.

Extended day program for grades K - 5

The program which will run for the elementary schools, is housed at the Wildwood School. It is designed to meet the needs and schedule of working parents of children in grades K-five, and will run in conjunction with the regular school calendar of 180 days. The daily schedule provides for breakfast, informal activities, and supervised leisure time from 6:45 to 8:45 a.m. five days a week and a snack and a more structured program from 3 to 6 each afternoon.

Staffing of the program will be by qualified personnel. In addition to certified teachers, program aides and high school students will be employed to assist the daily operations. The ratio of adult to child for the program is 1:10, thus assuring proper supervision.

Tuition payments have been broken down into equal payments for the 10 months of the school year (September through June). A $10 non-refundable registration fee is required for each child in addition to tuition.

For further information regarding this program, please contact Bunny Kelley, Wildwood School; 649-6010.

Wilmington cable TV rate changes

Effective Sept. 1, Continental Cablevision will make numerous changes in cable service and equipment prices to comply with the 1992 federal cable law and new regulations issued by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

As a result, some customers' monthly cable bill will decrease, others will increase, and some will change little. Continental will not benefit financially from these changes. The changes include adjustments in rates for cable service packages and equipment fees, elimination of some fees and the introduction of new options for customers.

Under the new FCC rate regulations, cable companies must adjust their rates to either a "benchmark" or average rate determined by the FCC, or a rate based on the cost of doing business in a community.

"We are eliminating the cost of an additional cable outlet from $7.95 to $0.00 cents per month and reducing other cable service options" said Continental General Manager Greg Brennan. "On the other hand, the actual cost of some services is higher than what we've been charging, so those prices will increase. For example, the cost of standard cable service, 53 channels, will increase from $22.45 to $24.06 per month."

Effective Sept. 1:

*The monthly rate for Standard Service (Basic Broadcast plus the cable program networks), Continental's most popular level of service, will be $24.06, an increase from the current $22.45; Limited Plus, a new service option which includes Basic Broadcast plus 12 selected cable program networks will be priced at $13.89; Limited service, previously called Information service will be $11.86 a decrease from the current $11.95; while the rate for Basic Broadcast Service (broadcast stations and community channels) will be $7.79, down from $8.00.

*Customers who have Standard, Limited Plus, Limited or Broadcast Service to an additional TV in their home will no longer pay the $7.95 monthly charge. However, a $1.91 monthly converter charge will apply to each converter in the home. Those customers who wish to receive premium services to multiple tvs in their home will pay a flat $2.00 monthly Service Plus charge to receive premium service on their additional outlets.

*Customers who have been receiving a complimentary converter box or remote control will see new charges of $1.91 or $.21 cents per month respectively, on their bill for that equipment.

*As with remote controls and converter boxes, fees for cable installation and other customer transactions will be changed to reflect their actual cost, as required by the FCC regulations.

*The $17.95 Focus service package will be discontinued due to the complexities of the new regulations. Due to the significant time and administrative expense associated with rate proceedings, it is impractical to continue offering this level of service.

*Customers also are being notified now that, effective Sept. 1, the monthly rate for the Sportspack (NESN and Sportschannel Combination) will increase from $15.95 to $16.95. Premium services are not subject to federal rate regulations.

Continental's rates for Basic Service and equipment will be reviewed by The Massachusetts Cable Television Commission for compliance with the federal rules. The Federal Communications Commission will oversee Cable Programming Service rates.

"We want our customers to know that we will do our best to help them understand how our obligations under the new regulations are affecting the prices of their services and equipment, and the format of their cable bills," Brennan said. "We ask for, and appreciate, their patience during this complicated process."

Electronics repair course

A course for adults in Biomedical Electronics Repair begins September 27, offered by the Adult Technical Institute at Shawsheen Tech. Students will be exposed to basic electronics, DC and AC theory, digital and analog, medical terminology, physics, and biomedical safety and repair. Career guidance and replacement assistance are included. Classes will meet Monday, Tuesday and Thursday from 3 to 10 p.m. and Friday from 3 to 6 p.m. The program ends June 17, 1994.

Sixteen slots are available, 11 for clients who are approved by JTPA Job Training Partnership Act and five for tuition students. For an application appointment, or more information, Call 508-667-2111, ext. 103.

It's YOUR Money

BY JOYCE BRISBOIS

WHO NEEDS A WILL?

Just about anyone who owns anything and/or has children whose future should be planned ought to have a will, yet more than 60 percent of American adults die without one. Without a will, assets are distributed according to state law and administered by someone appointed by the court. Your assets and your heirs deserve better.

Only with a will can you decide who gets what and how remaining assets are to be handled. A will establishes the preferred process for carrying out your instructions, names an executor and, exceptionally important in families - appoints a guardian for minors. (Get the guardian's permission in advance; choose someone your age or younger.)

Do you need a professional's help? Maybe not, but it's usually a good idea, and the fees are often more than saved by the tax-saving advice they give. Estate tax rates are extremely high, so good planning is essential to pay no more than necessary. The will should be signed in the presence of witnesses with no interest in it and reviewed every three to five years or when there are major changes in your life.

GASOLINE MADE TO EXPLODE

QUESTION: How can the use of gasoline be made safer?

ANSWER: Gasoline is extremely dangerous. Its vapors flow invisibly along the ground and can be ignited by a spark or flame from a considerable distance. Gasoline is made to explode.

Carrying gasoline in the trunk of a car is a dangerous practice. You might just as well carry dynamite if you are hit from behind. Never keep gasoline in glass bottles, only in approved safety cans. Never siphon gasoline by mouth. If it gets in your lungs, a few drops can kill you. If accidentally swallowed, do not induce vomiting. Call a doctor immediately.

GASOLINE is extremely dangerous. It is made to explode. Treat it carefully.

Town Pulse & Opinion

letter to the editor

Frankly misses facts

Dear Larz:

This is in response to the Frankly Speaking column of August 25, 1993 entitled "Abundant Life Closing Creates Budget Buster." There are several statements which do not provide the readers with an accurate picture of the extent of the work of the School Committee and its Space Needs Subcommittee on the issues of housing students and the budgetary implications.

Contrary to the statement that "the committee has yet to fully consider better options," the School Committee has spent substantial time in an analysis of our space needs and evaluating our options. Former School Committee member Peggy Kane began chairing a subcommittee composed of parents, teachers, administrators, citizens, and members of the Town Departments and Town officers in November, 1992. Peter DeRoeve, as Acting Superintendent, has presented these options at several public meetings. Additional suggestions have come from parents as well as Town Manager Mike Caira. Several of these options were soundly rejected by those present at these public meetings and, given the mission of the Space Needs Subcommittee "to develop, review, and recommend plans which determine the most effective utilization of instructional space available within the Town of Wilmington," the School Committee has accepted the recommendation to re-open the Boutwell.

It is encouraging to note that Kevin agrees with our position regarding the growth of the elementary population, but what I also would like readers to know is that the present space conditions for students and staff are inadequate and inappropriate. At Wildwood we should not have a nurse's office in a converted boys' lavatory nor a special needs resource room in the principal's office. And we presently could use one more teacher at Wildwood but, even if we could afford it in our budget there is simply no room. Shawsheen is coping with a present room shortage and all our art and music teachers have no classrooms of their own. In some of our buildings, what was once set up as computer labs on the cutting edge of technology have since been dismantled for classroom space or crowded into space in the libraries.

And your enrollment figures do fairly accurately delineate our increases, though as of August 27 we are now at 70 new students,or two additional classrooms of 35 students each.

But the budgetary analysis the column presents is distorted and presumes decisions not yet even under discussion by the School Committee. We would not hire 10 additional teachers for the first year, and may not reopen with a principal that first year.

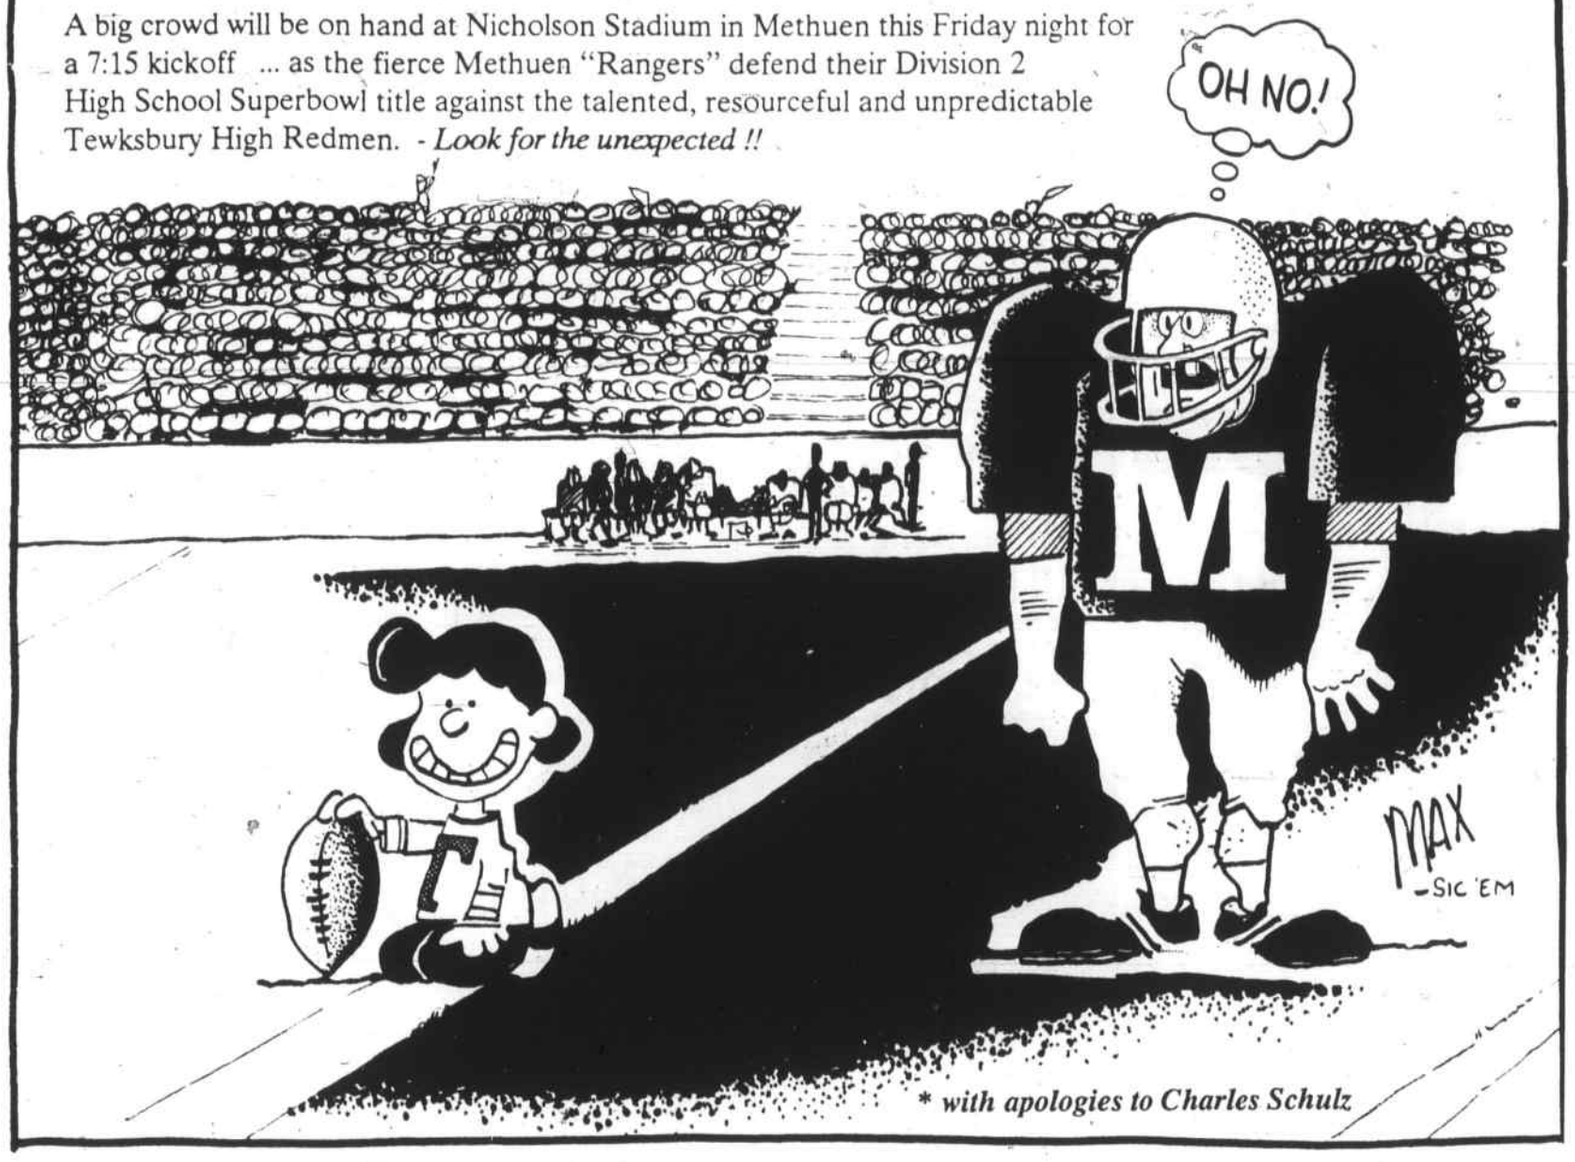

Inclosing, I would ask that you give us the opportunity to provide you with all the facts and rationales for our decision so as to better inform the public of these critical issues. Your commentary may also do a disservice to the Abundant Life School as you yourself are sounding their death knell. In my meetings with the Rev. Grimley and Principal Hobart, they indicated that they are actively pursuing alternative possibilities for their school programs.

I look forward to the opportunity to work with the Town Crier on keeping the public informed of all the facts as we continue to meet our responsibilities on behalf of Wilmington students.

Yours very truly,
Geraldine A. O'Donnell, Ed.D.
Superintendent of Schools

Republicans are knocking at the door

by Kevin John Sowyrda

Massachusetts Republicans have an uncanny ability to hear opportunity knocking without ever listening. Case in point, the ghost of scandals past and the tidal wave of Populist revolt crashing against the G.O.P. headquarters doors in Boston, crying out for a good Republican candidate to challenge Ted Kennedy in 1994.

But the candidates are withering on the vine despite the G.O.P.'s best chance in history to bring down the democratic Goliath and one-time Liberal Icon.

The G.O.P.'s potential moment in the sun is triggered by a demographic, political revolution that has taken root in just the five short years since Kennedy last faced the voters. In November of 1989 incumbency was still a virtue, Ross Perot a nonentity and the Baystate still the most forgiving of electorates, swooning over Kennedy memorabilia.

But as 1993 creeps toward history, the state where Kennedy magic was born is slipping into the hands of the mob, also known as the people-a new, irreverent flock of voters.

What's also changed is that the virtue of incumbency is oxymoron and forgiving voters went out with Mike Dukakis. Just ask him.

But the G.O.P.'s party machinery has never been effective in recruiting candidates, even when opportunity knocks loudly. You could hear the sign of relief from Hyannisport when Economic Affairs Secretary Gloria Larson ruled out a Kennedy challenge. The highly eloquent Cape Republican could have been a real contender just on the undertones alone.

The same can not be said for Andy Card, who'd be just another pin stripped suit going head to head with a more expensive pin stripped suit with a name. His exit stage left is a sign from the Gods of Politics for the Republicans to use some recruitment muscle.

Now is the time for all good women to come to the aid of their Grand Old Party. Time for Weld, the party's titular head, to privately deliver the "party needs you speech" to Larson or a comparable replacement like State Senator Hicks. After all, it's a women's world and Ted Kennedy knows it.

State Republicans can achieve three important goals by recruiting the right woman to take on Ted. First, as they see him as vulnerable, Democratic activists could circle the wagons round the senator and consequently weaken the opposition to Governor Weld's same year re-election bid. Second, when Republicans nationwide discover that Massachusetts has someone other than a suspicious name-caller like James Darwin Carter challenging the party's most infamous nemesis, the campaign dollars will fly in as quickly as the national media. Third-this is Ted's race to lose.

Briefly in politics

Before you dismiss the School Committee's Shirley Callan as too controversial for the upcoming Wilmington Board of Selectmen race, consider her now famous (or infamous, depending on who you talk to) survivability factor. Callan topped the ticket in her maiden bid for the school committee in 1985, beat back strong challenges in 1988 and 1991, and absolutely pulverized her opposition in a nasty, special recall election earlier this year.

Once dismissed as a gadfly local official bent on headline-grabbing politics, Callan is today respected by friends and foes alike as a savvy pol who's made a brilliant career out of come-from-behind victories. "It seems like each time the insiders are writing her obituary, she ends up on top," said one town hall veteran.

Now the politician with nine lives, who's developed the enviable reputation of "local whistleblower" as she likes to describe herself, could have her sights set on Bob Cain's seat on the board of selectmen. Cain is toying with the idea of retirement, and Callan's candidacy would come at the heels of Diane Allan's election-the first woman to sit on the board since Wavie Drew. Callan just might have a good shot at expanding female representation on the board of town fathers.

Callan said she's seriously weighing a candidacy because she likes "the politics, the dialogue and the issues" that come before the selectmen but criticized board members for lacking a "sense of direction" in their public policy discourse. "I don't think there's a lot of cohesion, or focus," said Callan, who is the director of adult education in Methuen and a resident of Woburn Street. Callan may join former selectman Mark Haldane in the race. Haldane has said he will be a candidate next year should Cain retire.

Improving Mass. environmental law enforcement

by State Senator John O'Brien

Bill: "An Act Relative to Improving Environmental Law Enforcement in the Commonwealth. Status: The Senate Committee on Steering and Policy.

The intent of this bill is to strengthen penalties imposed on those individuals who commit infractions against the environment. This legislation also proposes to establish an Environmental Prosecution Fund. This bill authorizes the Commonwealth to begin proceedings for the forfeiture of the assets of any person that were used in the commission of crimes against the environment. All penalties, fines, attorney's fees and recovered properties are to be placed in this fund to be used to support environmental law enforcement activities undertaken by the Attorney General, the District Attorney, Executive Office of Environmental Affairs, local police and fire departments, local Board of Health and Conservation Commission.

As a co-sponsor of this legislation, I believe "An Act Relative to Improving Environmental Law Enforcement" is an important piece of legislation. If passed, it will significantly aid the protection of our environment. I am looking forward to working toward the passage of this bill.

Bill: Commonwealth's Lead Paint Laws. Status: Senate Committee on Ways and Means

As many of you may have experienced when either buying or selling real estate, Massachusetts has one of the oldest and most rigid lead paint laws in the nation. There are several bills pending in the legislature to address the serious threat that lead paint poses. Because so many bills concerning this subject have been filed, the speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives appointed a Special Committee of the House of Representatives to analyze all pieces of legislation regarding lead paint pending in the State Legislature. This committee reported its findings in July. The intent of the committee's report was to make recommendations to reform current lead paint statutes to insure that children's health be protected while also easing the burden of cleanup for property owners.

Explaining the "Tewksbury Police News"

by Bill Conlon

After receiving a number of complaints over the years, perhaps a note of explanation is needed about the Tewksbury Police News.

The weekly police write-up is taken directly from the desk and cruiser logs, provided by the Tewksbury Police Department. The information in the logs, however, is rather dry. An entry might read "B&E at 000 Shawsheen. See report." That's all. Police use a form of shorthand, with B&E equating to Breaking and Entering. If there seems to be a story beyond the "routine" crime report I may ask to see the officer's report. Sometimes, but not always.

The information is taken down by this scribe Monday night and embellished slightly while writing the weekly report on Tuesday, such as "... a housebreak was discovered on Shawsheen Street." House numbers are not given because we try hard not to identify victims. Victims of sex crimes likewise will not be identified, unless the pursuit of truth provides a compelling reason to do so. Not often, but occasionally. Mistakes happen, through computer confusion and human error, but we strive for absolute accuracy.

The Tewksbury Police News column tends to run a bit long, so an occasional piece of humor is interjected to keep the pace lively. Occasionally, the police officers themselves will inject a note of humor in their reports, and they can be a funny bunch, but any officer-provided humor is noted as such. Humor slipped in at random is usually the artistic license of this scribe. I do, whenever possible, attempt to find humorous incidents in the weekly log pages, and I'm rarely disappointed. Silliness abounds.

In case of arrests, names and address are taken directly from the arrest booking log, along with the charges. If the arrest was made mistakenly, say the arrest warrant was recalled by the court but the police were never notified, we pull the name of the arrestee if the mistake is caught in time. If the charges are dismissed or a "not guilty" finding is made, that fact will usually not appear here. This reporter simply does not have all week to spend in Lowell District Court, tracking the disposition of every case. If arrested by the Tewksbury police, for any reason, you can expect to see your name in print. The names of those arrested will not be withheld from print, so don't even ask. If arrested, your name appears. Period.

The cut-off age for printing a juvenile's name is age 17. Anyone age 17 or older will have their name printed, those under the age of 17 will not, but exceptions may be made for egregious crimes.

That pretty much covers the Tewksbury Police News. Questions should be directed to me, in care of the Town Crier. Thank you.

Recalling simpler times with Joe Ryan

by Jeff Nazzaro

Joe Ryan's Barber Shop is a throwback to a simpler time.

His tiny Main Street shop located across the street from the MBTA train stop in Wilmington has not changed much in the 34 years since Ryan took over the business. The MBTA station is now Big Joe's Sub Shop, but the barber shop that has occupied the same space since the 1930's is still just that-a barber shop in the true sense of the word.

The walls are filled with boxing, baseball and auto racing memorabilia-standards for any barber shop.

"I followed [Marvin] Hagler's career quite closely," Ryan said of the former middleweight champion from Brockton, whose Sports Illustrated cover-gracing photographs fill some of Ryan's scarce wall space.

There are also photographs of Wilmington Center and Joe Ryan's Barber Shop, on fire in 1949 and buried under snow in 1978.

In addition, there are rock and roll mementos highlighting stars from Elvis to The Beatles, with stars from past and present playing continuously on the shop's radio, a mainstay since Pete Langlois originally owned the shop.

"I've been here since 1959," said Ryan, who bought the shop from Adrian Durkee, his former employer, in 1962.

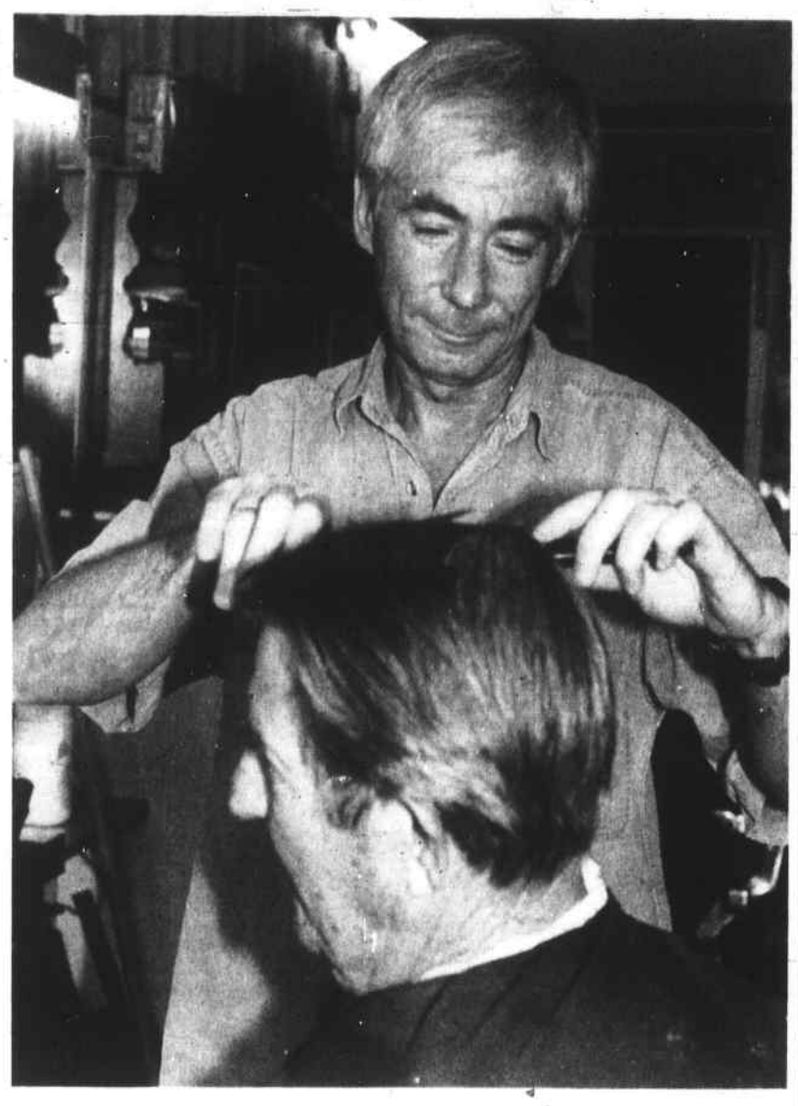

While the shop has not changed much, the times certainly have.

"At one time we used to have three barbers," said Ryan, who now runs the shop alone, using two chairs.

"I have the same number of customers; but they come once a month nowadays, even five weeks. They used to come every two weeks."

Another difference from the days gone by is that barbers no longer shave their customers, a "lost art" gone before Ryan got started, according to the barber.

"I still shave around the ears with the straight razor and soap," Ryan said, "I try to stick to some of the traditions, and I keep the [leather] strap on the chair. The customers like to see that," he said.

Simple cut

Perhaps the most stark difference from 1959 is that the barber shop now boasts a television with cable hook-up, although Ryan confesses it is "rarely on."

"If the guys who used to be here could see this..." Ryan mused of the cable TV with a shake of his head.

Ryan learned the art of barbering primarily on the job, he said, although he did attend barber's school.

When he first started in 1959, "We were really busy and that's how I learned to be a barber. You don't really become a barber until you do it for a while," Ryan maintains. In 1962, Ryan assumed ownership of the barber shop which now bears his name.

"[Durkee] retired and sold it to me," Ryan said, adding "This is the only barber shop I've ever worked at and I guess it will be the only one I ever will."

One more difference Ryan has seen in over thirty years of barbering is the price of a haircut. Still a modest $7.00 for a regular haircut at Joe Ryan's, the price when Ryan started: 75 cents.

. Since the days of soda fountains, the worth of a small neighborhood drugstore has been recognized. The soda fountains aren't around anymore; but the friendly neighborhood drugstore is alive and well.

When Shameem and Syed bought the store from the Lymans last December, they set out to give you what large impersonal chains can't Expert pharmacists who care.

Your pharmacist will always be there. We don't rotate the hours our pharmacists work, the way big chains do. This system gives the store a more cozy, friendly feel. We treat you like a person, not an insurance claim. But, don't let the small town treatment fool you.

The store has the most modern computer system for filling prescriptions and keeping patient records. The computer gives analysis of drug interactions and gives facts about the medication. This makes the system better than the one many chains use.

In addition to the finest in prescription medicine, we offer many over-the-counter remedies. The pharmacists will help in selecting the right one for you.

If you aren't feeling well enough to visit us we offer free home delivery in Wilmington and Burlington after 7:30 pm or earlier in emergencies.

In order to keep you healthy and mobile, we offer home health aids from electronic blood pressure cuffs to wheel chairs, crutches, walkers, orthopedic supports, elderly convenience aids and vitamins.

For the holidays we offer an array of gifts under $15, gift wrap, gift bags and candy. Gifts purchased on Christmas eve will be wrapped free if you wish.

Wilmington Rec. Dept. Director Ron Swasey

When play is work

by Jeff Nazzaro

Ron Swasey is all but certain he was the youngest department head ever hired in Wilmington. Swasey came down from Manchester, N.H., where he was working for municipal recreation in January, 1972, to assume the position he has held for almost 21 years - Director of Recreation for the Town of Wilmington. He was 24.

A lot has happened in Wilmington recreation over the past twenty years, but Swasey who has a B.S. and M.S. in recreation, prefers to dwell on the "very good" present and the bright future of the town's recreation department.

"It looks like we're in the black on the beach," Swasey happily reported. "The beach went very well [this year]; a very popular alternative to driving to the ocean."

Swasey, who grew up in Exeter, N.H. playing three sports and indulging in the New Hampshire pursuits of skiing, hiking, fishing, hunting, canoeing, etc., also reported positive results from almost every other activity offered this summer by the Wilmington Recreation Department.

"With a combination of user-fees and tax support for recreation activities, there has been an overwhelming response," Swasey, who is in the process of disseminating feedback on rec. department polls submitted by townspeople, said.

"The only things funded directly [through tax support] are a clerk and the summer special needs program," at the Wildwood School.

"We put a lot of kids to work, Swasey said; "We pump [tax and user-fee money] right back into the good of the community. We take a dollar and give back two in service," he said of the recreation department.

The special needs program of 23 years is one of the few remaining recreation department functions to pre-date Swasey's direction.

Other successful programs this summer included the Glen Road playground, the Tiny Tots program at the Shawsheen School, the Police Association Beach Day at Silver Lake and the Lions Club Fishing Derby.

All work

From his town hall office, Wilmington Recreation Director Ron Swasey supplies a Wilmington resident with information regarding town recreation programs. Swasey is proud of his department and the low-cost services that it supplies Wilmington. (photo by Jeff Nazzaro).

"We take pride in trying to give the people quality programs," Swasey said. "I'm not satisfied until a program reaches a certain level of quality."

In addition to providing excellent programs for the town's children, Swasey also takes pride in entertaining the adults of the community. Tentatively scheduled events include a Las Vegas trip, monthly excursions to Connecticut casinos and a fall foliage trip.

"I love saving people money," says Swasey, who offers discounted tickets for everything from Showcase Cinemas in Woburn to Water Country in Portsmouth, N.H.

"If I find a way to get a discount, I'll press somebody to deal with us and get us a discount," he said, referring to the myriad deals he has made for discounted tickets, passes and rates, including the ever-popular Disney World discounts.

In addition, the Wilmington Rec. Department offers discounted sales of books filled with discounts on everything from restaurants to skiing, and has a free loaner library of VHS tapes related to sports and recreation.

For kids and adults alike, Swasey and the recreation department have lined up a tentative schedule of activities, including a "big basketball league sometime in October;" men's gym, canoe rentals - "the best time to use canoes is in the fall when you see the leaves turn. It is so beautiful;" ticket discounts, a New York City daytrip, the annual Halloween night Horribles Parade, ladies fitness, pass, punt and kick, the special needs rodeo trip and kindakarate; Junior basketball, Topsfield Fair tickets, rafting excursions and Ski Card International skiing discounts.

Any questions regarding any upcoming event or activity should be directed to the Wilmington Recreation Department in room 12 of the town hall or by calling 658-4270.

Shawsheen Tech adult courses

Ranging from Desktop Publishing to Medical Billing and Cosmetology to P-CAD courses, the Adult Education Program at Shawsheen Tech lists 39 courses this fall that will enable adults to learn a vocation or explore an avocation.

Registration will take place in the school cafeteria from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Monday, Sept. 13 to Thurs., Sept. 16 . Fall classes begin the week of September 27 and end December 2. Mail-in registration will be accepted beginning September 7.

Evening School Director Ray Elden said his office will be open for inquiries about this year's program, Monday through Thursday 6:30 to 10 p.m. During those hours, call 508-667-2111. Elden urges early sign-ups. "Since some classes are very popular, they could be filled by September 13, so early registration is recommended," he said.

New this fall are a series of desktop publishing courses, including "Introduction to MacIntosh," "Aldus Pagemaker using the MacIntosh," and "Using Freehand and Typestyler on the MacIntosh." Each program will feature hands-on learning.

The P-CAD training, with revision 606 of this popular desktop printed circuit board system, is made possible through a donation of software for this state of the art technology from Altium, an IBM Company.

The donation was arranged by Doug Seward, a Tech alumnus and advisory committee member who is now the Eastern Region Applications Specialist for Altium.

Also new is Medical Billing, a Monday night course that will introduce students to health insurance medical technology and provide technical skills for billing procedures. This course is considered useful to medical assistants and medical secretaries.

Adults can learn the skills needed to become licensed manicurists in the Cosmetology program, which will meet Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 5 to 9 p.m.

Two courses of financial management will also be offered, both focusing on retirement planning.

Back by popular demand are programs in word processing, air conditioning and refrigeration (ACR), auto body repair, automotive and diesel mechanics, basic and advanced welding, basic electricity, electrical three year apprenticeship, home computers and other computer courses, including windows and Lotus 1-2-3, carpentry, woodworking, CAD, machineshop, plumbing, medical assistant I and II, nurse's aide, and personal improvement leisure time classes, including low impact aerobics, G.E.D. equivalency test preparation and home maintenance.

Forum on breast health, Sept. 29

To increase awareness of the need for early detection in the battle against breast cancer, the Breast Health Awareness Committee will hold an educational forum on September 29 from 3 to 5 p.m. in the auditorium at Town Hall in Wilmington.

Participants will learn the latest facts about breast cancer, how to do a breast self examination, the special psychological issues related to this disease and how survivors have dealt successfully with life after breast cancer.

A Lahey breast cancer specialist and psychologist will present the formal part of the program, followed by a talk by a breast cancer survivor and breast self examination instruction by nurses from the Winchester Hospital Breast Care Center. For additional information, call (508) 658-4298.

The Breast Health Awareness Committee is a joint project of the Lahey Clinic, the Boards of Health of Burlington, Bedford and Wilmington, the American Cancer Society and the Mass. Breast Cancer Coalition.

Annual River Day, Sept. 12

by Bob LeBoeuf

The Shawsheen Watershed Environmental Action Team (SWEAT) is ready for its Fifth Annual River Day.

This year's celebration will be held Sunday, Sept. 12 from 1 to 6 p.m. on the grounds of the K of C Hall and the banks of the Shawsheen River, Route 38 in Wamesit.

The team has a full afternoon of events planned and all are welcome. Please stop by and enjoy the music of "Joe's Garage," featuring Wamesit's own Joe Moore, and the Flying O'Connor Brothers (American tunes with an authentic Keltic-bent) and songwriter extraordinaire "Brother at Brenner." Brother Al's works are guaranteed to put a smile on your face, a tear in your eye, and a searing ray in your consciousness.

For public participation, Rick Barry of Wilderness Plus and Camp 40 Acres has volunteered to coordinate waterfront activities, including canoe rentals from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. (Eighteen years of age or parental permission); free raft rides for children in the Shawsheen Meadows Refuge, challenging canoe races (take your own or use one of SWEAT's), and the favorite event for all macho American River Gladiators and Gladiattrices-canoe jousting with a cash prize.

No celebration of life and nature would be complete without a healthy contest and to that end SWEAT plans to crown a "Ms. Shawsheen River Bottom 1993." Buxom Bob Rauseo stands as a heavy favorite.

Horseshoe tourney, poignant displays, and many down home spontaneous eruptions are destined to occur.

Proceeds will benefit relief for flood victims in the midwest; the Scott Braciska Memorial Scholarship Fund and the Shawsheen Meadows Wildlife Refuge.

Please come and enjoy rain or shine (including hurricanes, meteorites, and torrential downpours). For more info, call 851-9505 or 851-4094.

If you love gardening, you'll want to know what's happening this week at Mahoney's.
Fall for Quality
This time of year, newspapers are full of ads touting low plant prices. Every merchant out there — from the drugstore to the hardware store — wants to get into the bargain plant business.
But while everyone's talking about low plant prices, few talk about plant quality.
Now at Mahoney's we have quite a bit to say about quality. Our trees and shrubs are consistently healthier and shapelier than others you see. And our flowering plants do have more flowers than the supermarket's plants have.
It's possible you took one look at our extraordinary plant selection and quality, and figured our plants had to be expensive. Well, look again.
If you're not a Mahoney's shopper, these prices should convince you to turn over a new leaf.

New pre-school progams at Eastern Middlesex YMCA

The Eastern Middlesex Family YMCA, located at 36 Arthur B. Lord Drive in Reading, has added a variety of new pre-school classes this winter.

"Stepping Stones" is a class designed for two and three year olds which meets Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:15 to 10. A new theme will be explored each week where the children will incorporate crafts, games, singing, and gym play, all in a small group setting.

"Fun and Games" is another new class for two and three year olds which is offered from 1 to 2 p.m. Tuesdays. This class is split between a half hour of crafts experience and a half hour of the popular gym activities.

Children will explore a variety of athletic activities where basic techniques of a new sport will be taught each week in a 45 minute class called "Sports Bugs." This class is offered from 1 to 1:45 Thursday afternoons.

"These classes are an excellent beginning to help your child prepare for a school setting," says Chris Burditt, an instructor of four years who holds a bachelors degree in early childhood education. "The children learn to work with others, follow directions and challenge themselves in a fun and suportive environment."

Classes will run for eight weeks starting the week of September 12. Registration can be done at the Y or by phone with mastercard or visa. For more information, call the YMCA at 617-944-79989.

Women in the arts lecture, Sept 15

The Wilmington Council for the Arts will present a lecture at the Arts Center, entitled "Women Artists through the Ages," Wednesday, September 15 at 7:30.

Martha Chiarchiaro, a teacher of art history at the Worcester Art Museum will serve as guest speaker. Ms. Chiarchiaro, who holds a masters degree in art history from Williams College will be teaching the course, "Women Artists through the Centuries" at the museum this fall. Slides will be an added feature of the presentation.

The only female member of the painters guild during the remarkable period of Dutch art in the 17th Century was Judith Leyster (1609-1660). She contributed to a remarkable period in the "Golden Age" of Dutch art in the age of Rembrandt and Frans Hals. Leyster was exceptional for her participation in the competitive art market which was dominated by men.

Artists who wished to sell their works at public fairs and markets were required to belong to the artists' guild, which protected the rights of its members. Leyster's acceptance into the guild in 1633 confirmed her status as a professional painter, and meant she was able to establish a workshop and take on students.

The Worcester Art Museum is mounting an exhibition of Leyster's works by her leading contemporaries including Frans Hals, Dirck Hals and Molenaer in the Worcester exhibition.

There is no admission fee for the lecture at the Wilmington Arts Center and all are welcome.

Wilmington senior topics

Whist party Sept. 13

The first whist party of the month will be held in the function room of the Senior Center beginning at 1 p.m. Those who enjoy playing whist and cannot find people who play the game, why not drop in to the Center and join the other seniors who enjoy the game as you do. The center is air conditioned throughout

Eating together

Eating together has resumed in the high school lunch site. Please remember to call the Senior Center, 658-2258 or 657-7595 to order the meal you will want the following day. At the high school you have a choice of a meal. That is, if you do not want a full course meal, you can take a sandwich, salad, or soup. Milk and dessert are served with the full meal and any other selection you may make. The cost of the meal is $1 and the serving is at 12:15.

Any senior who lives alone and can can't get out or who hates to prepare a meal for one's self should go to the lunch site and get a meal prepared for them. Doctors will tell us the time of day that we should eat our largest meal is around noon. Why not join the large number eating their meals at the congregated lunch site at the school. You will not only be eating a nutritious meal, nor alone but with others, but will also be meeting and making some new friends.

Nutrition class

Tuesday, September 14 at 9:30 a.m., the nutrition class will be held in the craft room of the Senior Center. This is a relatively new class we started last year. All involved in the class have been enjoying themselves immensely while learning how to live a much healthier life, by eating the proper foods. All you have to do is go to the center next Tuesday and join in on the class. The second year students will be happy to have you on the way to a healthier life with them. This is a free class and the students make fat free and sugar free food items. They take them to the class for the students to taste.

They also take the recipe if anyone would like to make it themselves at home. After the class, weather permitting, some of the students take a short walk around the common for a little exercise.

Hearing aid specialists

This week both hearing aid specialists will be at the Center. Tuesday, Fred our former hearing aid specialist will be at the Center from 9 a.m. to check the hearing of seniors and will check hearing aids. He will make some minor repairs at the center if possible.

On Friday the hearing specialist from Beltone will be at the center to check the hearing and hearing aids if you prefer him. Some of the seniors who started with Fred want to continue with him. You can make a choice next week. Please call for appointments before the days listed.

Dr. Casey

Podiatrist Dr. Casey will be in the Senior Center Wednesday, Sept. 15. He will be treating ailments of the feet starting at 10 a.m. Please remember to call the Center for an appointment. This procedure has been a tremendous help to the doctor. He had a large number of patients last month, but he worked hard to move them along very nicely to the pleasure of all.

While you are waiting you can go to the kitchen for a nice hot cup of coffee and a donut. The donuts are donated by Dunkin Donuts in North Wilmington and are picked up every morning by one of our volunteers, Joe Paglia. To Joe we say thank you. Our only request is to eat the donuts and drink the coffee in the kitchen to protect the rugs.

Blood pressure/sugar

The nurse will be checking blood pressures and giving diabetes tests Thursday, Sept. 16 from 1:30 p.m. With the arrival of September, comes the end of those free and easy meals. When you look back on those sweet desserts and ice cream sodas devoured willingly, you may want now to have Ann check your sugar level. Remember diabetes is a silent illness that can creep up on us unknown to us. To make sure your sugar level is fine, it would be wise to have Ann give you the simple blood test next Thursday.

September social

This Thursday evening we will be attending the September social. The chicken dinner will be served at seven. Music for dinner and dancing will be provided from 7 to 11 p.m. If you have not signed up we do have a few openings due to cancellations. Call the center and let us know you want to attend. It will not be necessary for you to come to the center, you can pay the director $4.00 at the hall.

Claire O'Brien, R.N. will train home health aides

Ms. Linda Cornell, CEO, and president of the Visiting Nurse Association of Eastern Mass., announced the recent appointment of Wilmington resident Claire O'Brien, R.N. as the agency's home health aide educator.

Ms. O'Brien is responsible for the supervision and training of the rapidly expanding home health aide department. Home health aides play integral roles on the home health care team. Supplementing the work of nurses and therapists, they provide personal care such as bathing, grooming, dressing, assistance with nutritional needs, and help with walking, getting out of bed, and exercising.

"Home health aides are quite literally the backbone of the visiting nurses. They provide all of the hands-on care that our patients must have in order to stay at home after surgery or an illness. Ms. O'Brien will provide the staff with the ongoing training and support to enhance their skills," said Cornell.

Before coming to the VNA, O'Brien served as adult family care nurse for Somerville-Cambridge Elder Services. Additionally, she has extensive experience in outpatient, nursing home, and hospital nursing.

The Visiting Nurse Association of Eastern Mass is a certified home health care agency serving residents of 31 communities in the region including Wilmington. # Super Bowl: Dolphins over Cowboys

NFC outlook

by James Pote

San Francisco 49ers: With the departure of Joe Montana to Kansas City it is a whole new era for the Bay Area Niners, as it will be known as "Steve Young's Team." The only question is can the Niners overcome Dallas to go to the Super Bowl?

Offensively, they have the best all-around quarterback and receiver. Young, with his new contract, and without Montana on his back, will prove this year how real he is. Second to Young is wide receiver Jerry Rice, who many believe is the greatest receiver ever to play the game. With Rice, John Taylor and Brent Jones, the Niners have a very solid threesome to go to.

Defense could be a weakness. With Pierce Holt and Tim Harris leaving via free agency, the Niners have a lot of questions to answer.

Atlanta Falcons: The departure of Deion Sanders to the Atlanta Braves leaves a big hole for the Falcons.

The Falcons now have two fine quarterbacks with Chris Miller and newly-acquired Bobby Hebert from New Orleans who can step in and take them on a long winning streak. With the likes of Andre Rison, Michael Haynes and Mike Pritchard as receivers, we will see a lot of passing and a lot of touchdowns, because of the non-existent running game. Pierce Holt may add a lot to this franchise.

New Orleans Saints: The Saints took a big bite this off-season as they lost a few big names who can make the biggest difference in whether they could have been a contender or not. With Bobby Herbert going to the Falcons and linebacker Pat Swilling traded to Detroit, it looks as if the Saints are going downhill.

They do however, still have a few big names with Eric Martin as a receiver who has averaged 66 catches since 1987. They also acquired ex-Bears' fullback Brad Muster.

The defense has a lot to prove with Swilling absent. With Wayne Martin and Rickey Jackson combining for 29 tackles, the Saints will need a lot more. But the biggest question to Saints fans is at quarterback. They have three big questions, will it be Steve Walsh, a huge flop, will it be Wade Wilson, a journeyman who has lost his confidence or will it be Mike Buck who has thrown only eight passes in three years?

Los Angeles Rams: With quarterback Jim Everett quickly going downhill, it looks as if the Rams with have another long season ahead of them.

NFC Central

Green Bay Packers: With the signing of defensive end Reggie White, it looks as if Green Bay can pull off what San Francisco did with Barry Bonds.

If quarterback Brett Favre can have another year like this past one, the Packers are looking like tremendous contenders to take on the Cowboys.

Detroit Lions: Expect big things from this franchise this fall, as not only do they have Barry Sanders, but the addition of Pat Swilling and the emergence of Andre Ware can make the Lions contenders.

Minnesota Vikings: With a solid group of receivers and running backs, the Vikings have an impressive offense, but with Jim McMahon as the QB, the Vikings will go nowhere. McMahon is very overrated and very injury prone, and will add a lot of problems to this team.

With the two Carters, Anthony and Chris, the Vikings have an impressive 1-2 punch, with tight end Steve Jordan adding to the list. Defensively, the Vikings are average. Chris Doleman is one of the league's best defensive ends, but there is not enough support to help him.

Chicago Bears: All Dave Wannstedt wants to be is .500, but it is very unlikely with this tough division. Expect big years from QB Jim Harbaugh and running back Neil Anderson, however. Receiving and offensive line play with be problems.

Tampa Bay Buccaneers: With Testeverde gone, and no talent for Sam Wyche, expect a long, long year for the Bucs. Steve Deberg and Craig Erickson will battle for the quarterback job, and neither one of them is a big threat. Tailback Reggie Cobb is however, but he must show consistently in order for the Bucs to stay out of the cellar.

NFC East

Dallas Cowboys: The Cowboys are definitely the team to beat in the NFC, as they will go back to the big dance. Troy Aikman will be a big part of that success.

Washington Redskins: The Skins may be able to compete against the Cowboys only if QB Mark Rypien is healthy.

Phoenix Cardinals: The Cards have a tremendous amount of potential and are definitely a team on the rise. With QB signee Steve Beurlein at the helm look for Andre Rison to become even better.

New York Giants: If the Giants play as a team and Lawrence Taylor plays like he can, the Giants could be competitive.

Philadelphia Eagles: With the cutting back and the many free agents, leaving the Eagles are in for a losing season. Only a few real players remain like Randall Cunningham, Seth Joyner and Herschel Walker.

Wilmington High School coaching staff

AFC chances

Miami Dolphins: The Dolphins definitely have enough talent to overcome the Bills and take a trip to the Super Bowl. Dan Marino has a lot of talent to go with Keith Jackson and the explosive offense.

The defense has improved with the likes of John Offerdahl, Bryan Cox and Chuck Klingbell.

Buffalo Bills: Buffalo always has enough talent, but with Miami there, they will not do it again this year.

Still, with stars like Jim Kelly, Thurman Thomas, Andrew Reed, Bruce Smith and Cornelius Bennett, not to mention free agent signee Jim Wohlford, the Bills have a lot of threats and will have a lot of wins, but again they will flatten under pressure.

Indianapolis Colts: The Colts finally can put all their off the field activity away and start to play football and compete at the top. The defense is the major key for the Colts if they are going to be a winner.

Steve Entman and Quentin Coryatt must have tremendous years, because there is a lot riding on their shoulders. But, with Jeff George still holding out, there could be a lot of questions with very few answers.

New York Jets: The Jets are improving and have a lot of talent, but there are too many other teams who are better. Marvin Jones will have a huge impact on their defense, just as Blair Thomas will on their offense, but Boomer leaves too much speculation at quarterback.

New England Patriots: The Patriots need too much help. The answer is an entire new team. Even though they are rebuilding, expect a very down year for coach Parcells.

The offense has a lot of questions, including if Drew Bledsoe starts who is he going to throw to? The team has improved with Vincent Brown, Andrew Tippette, Maurice Hurst, Agnew, Goad and Singleton in what could be an impressive defense, but again with no offense, the Pats could be lucky 4-12.

AFC West

Kansas City Chiefs: If Joe Montana can accomplish half of what is expected, the Chiefs will have a very productive year.

San Diego Chargers: San Diego can now come back to earth, as their easy schedule is over and now they will face real teams.

They do however, have a lot of talent, in Stan Humphries, Ronnie Harmon and Anthony Miller, on the offensive board and we all know what Junior Seau can do defensively, so hopefully the Chargers can repeat their surprise attack and make it an interesting year.

Denver Broncos: The Broncos will have an average year, as they are a very boring team with no one other than John Elway to lead them will have an average year, as they are a very boring team with no one other than John Elway to lead them anywhere. Elway has very limited receivers to throw to and they will make him very frustrated. The defense is decent, but not impressive, so expect a 7-9 like record.

Los Angeles Raiders: The Raiders never fulfill their expectations, and very limited talent will lead to very limited wins. With Eric Dickerson and Tim Brown leading the way, the Raiders don't have anyone else to fit in.

Seattle Seahawks: Seattle is definitely up and rising, with Cortez Kennedy as one of the game's best linemen and Rick Mirer as an up and coming QB, the Hawks are ready to compete, but are still a few players short to do that.

AFC Central

Houston Oilers: The Oilers with Warren Moon seem like the team to beat on paper, but they will not overcome the likes of Miami or Kansas City.

Lorenzo White is a solid running back, while the three pro bowlers Haywood Jeffries, Ernest Givens and Curtis Duncan will do a lot of damage. They will have a successful season because of the weak division.

Pittsburgh Steelers: The Steelers seem to be a top notch team, but more defensive help will make this team a serious contender.

Neil O"Donnell will team up with Barry Foster in a solid 1-2 punch, while more receivers are needed to help take the load off of Sanders. Expect the Steelers to compete, but they don't have enough for the real thing.

Cincinnati Bengals: The Bengals have a competitive team, but with the lack of offensive line and the lack of defense to support QB David Klinger, there seems to be too many questions.

The receivers are shaky now that Tim McGee is gone, while Harold Green remains the only running back. The Bengals hope first round pick John Copeland can step right in and can have a big impact on this old and injury prone defense.

Cleveland Browns: The Browns could have an interesting year with a healthy Bernie Kosar.

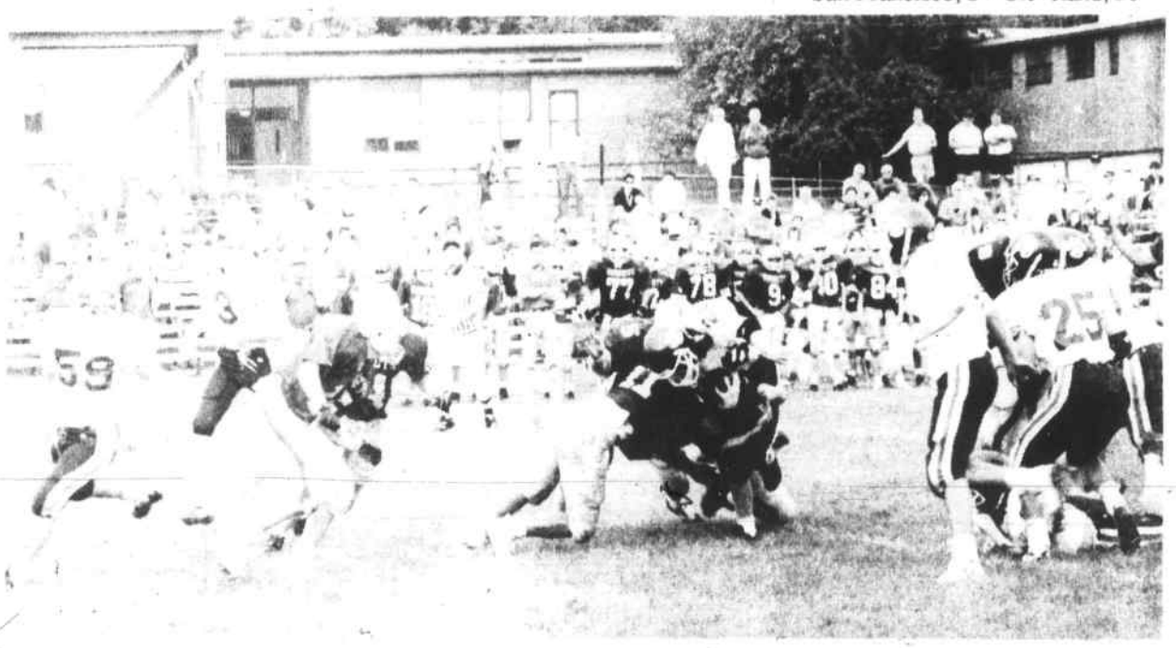

The problems with the Browns is that Eric Metcalf is the only dangerous running back. Leroy Hoard and Tommy Vardell may help, but they need all-star kind of years for the Browns to compete.

Stelio's rallies for victory

by James Pote

Bob Surran and Stelio's overcame a close call in Wilmington Softball League action last week, as Shea's came back from a 13-0 deficit to win a 15-14 nailbiter.

Surran led the Stelio's attack with a big three-run inside the park homerun in the final week of the regular season in the Over 35 Men's Softball League.

Bill Dineen and Ray Velardo also contributed five hits between them and they drove in six teammates.

As for Shea's, who have been playing good softball lately, George Deranian and Mike Hardiman lead their comeback with four hits, two triples and five RBI's between the two, but Shea's left the tying and winning runners on base as they could not come up with the big hit.

Rocco's 9
Lions Club 6

Rocco's came up with the win in this game, as Chucky Duggan supplied the offense with a big two-run smash in the first inning.

Rocco's then scored five runs in the fifth inning as they batted around which included RBI hits from Mike Duggan and Billy Naimo. Bill Cleary and Dennis Savosik had three hits each for the losing cause.

Charlie's Auto Body 18
Shea's Concrete 5

It was all Charlie's in this slugfest, as Frank Botte, Joe Raso and Bill Rizzo led the second place club with three hits each to take the win over last place Shea's.

Ben Hurley and Ronnie Barber also helped out by driving in three runners each. Teddie Wicks pitched great for his first win of the season.

Rocco's 16
McTire 7

Rocco's is gearing up for playoff form as they continue to clobber the ball, topping McTire, 16-7 in their final game of the season.

Richie Rappoli, Billy Naimo and Mike Duggan continue to do damage as they all combined for nine hits, six RBI's and five runs scored in this slaughter.

The playoffs start Monday, with Charlie's facing Shea's at 7 and McTire facing the Lions Club at 8:30. The other two leagues playoffs start Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

Final standings

Wilmington's Sean Monroe lived out a fantasy with his recent swings at Fenway Park's Green Monster.

Living out a fantasy

Sean Monroe of Wilmington lived out the fantasy of many New Englanders Saturday, Aug, 28 when he took a shot at Fenway Park's left field wall, the famed "Green Monster," during the second annual John Hancock Fantasy Day at Fenway Park to benefit The Jimmy Fund.

More than 100 participants stepped up to the plate at the event, which raised $215,000 for the Jimmy Fund, the main fund raising arm of the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

John Hancock Financial Services sponsored the event with the Boston Red Sox. Hancock donated an additional $1,000 for each ball hit off the left field wall and $2,000 for each home run.

TO SEE HOW WE'VE IMPROVED THE TILT-WASH WINDOW, JUST ADD WATER.

Now, with the new Andersen® DC™ Tilt-Wash window you don't have to sacrifice weathertightness for convenience. Thanks to a revolutionary weatherstrip and sash design, this easy wash window can withstand 8 inches of rain per hour, driven by 43 mph winds, without leaking.

And, that's only part of the story. This new window's remarkable weatherstripping not only helps to keep it airtight, it also makes it easier to operate. The unique rigid vinyl material weatherstripped to the sides of the sash cuts friction as well as leaks. But, best of all, this window's as easy to clean as it is to operate. A patented wash assist design lets you tilt both sash inward with little more than a touch of your fingertips. The new Andersen DC Tilt-Wash double hung window. Stop by and see for yourself how well it goes through the wash cycle.

Longer deer season means big business

by Bill Conlon

The Massachusetts Fisheries and Wildlife Board voted August 26 to add three days to the shotgun deer season, effective this year.

That means big business and more time in the field. Great.

The shotgun deer season will now run from November 29 until December 11, instead of ending December 8. The change won't affect the deer season in Zones 12-14 (the Cape and the islands) which will remains Nov. 29 to Dec. 8.

The change was discussed during a public hearing in July, and a full month was allowed for comments, prior to last month's vote.

The change, according to Deer Project leader Gary Vecellio, will allow the state to better control the deer population through the harvest of female deer (does).

Hunters during the archery and primitive weapon seasons may take antlerless deer, but the bulk of the harvest is made during the shotgun season. The state issues antlerless deer permits to control the ratio of bucks to does, and shotgunners are the only ones required to obtain the permits.

The higher the deer population in a given zone, the more antlerless permits the state will issue. A single buck can ... ahem ... "service" an awful lot of does in a single season, but the does are responsible for the birth rate, and the population.

Deer populations around the turn of the century were pretty thin, due to unlimited harvesting of does. All deer were fair game back then, and the herd itself were decimated.

But the key to deer numbers came through antlers-only hunting. The deer population stabilized with the advent of antlers-only, and the deer numbers continue to rise.

In fact, Massachusetts has 60,000 deer, according to latest estimates. In a state this small, that's a lot of deer! Record deer harvests are old news in Massachusetts, where every year it seems the record is broken again.

The issuance of antlerless permits to shotgunners helps control deer numbers, shotgunners are taking a smaller percentage of the annual deer harvest. In ten years, the take by shotgun has fallen to 70 percent, down from 81 percent, with bows and muzzle-loaders accounting for an increased portion of the harvest.

To retain control of the harvest, the state agreed to give shotgunners three more days afield, to better use their antlerless permits. The fix is intended to control deer numbers, but hunters win by getting a couple of extra days of hunting. Fine!

Motel operators in the Bay State aren't complaining, either. Try to book a room out in the Berkshires during deer season! However, the deer season used to run for one full week and one partial week, which wasn't the best for business.

Many hunters would stay the full week, then skip the partial week.

Now, the shotgun deer season will run for two solid weeks, except for Sunday. That means motels will be booked for two full weeks, making them happy.

Add to the motels such peripheral businesses such as breakfast shops, lunch stops, groceries and sporting goods outlets, and the laundramats where soggy hunters go to dry out, and you've got some serious cash pouring into the backwaters of the Bay State. Deer season gives motel owners a "swing" season, between the end of leaf-peeper time and the start of ski season, and the further away from civilization.

Big business indeed.

Oh, there will be people griping about the extended deer season, of course! Deer season just wouldn't be the same without the enviroNuts lamenting the "senseless slaughter of animals" ... blah, blah, blah.

But for hunters, there will be two Saturdays for chasing deer this year instead of one, two full weeks for deer season instead of one, and the state keeps closer control over the deer population, which continues to rise in Massachusetts.

Sounds good, but let's be careful out there. An increase in hunting accidents would be a severe downside to these added days of autumn.

--- Tackle Box ---

This Saturday, Sept. 12, will be "River Day" on the Shawsheen. The lovely and talented people from SWEAT, the Shawsheen Watershed Environmental Action Team, have a day of outdoor entertainment on the slate, all of it kicking off at the Tewksbury Knights of Columbus hall at 2 p.m. Events include live music, horseshoes, free raft rides for kids, and a host of ways to get wet on the river. Also, look for the new SWEAT T-shirt, on sale.

The first of the hunting seasons, gray squirrel in the western reaches of the Commonwealth, will open on Monday morning. Western squirrel is the only hunting in Massachusetts (except bear) that can be done with a rifle. Have we been practicing our marksmanship yet this year?

Well, we tried to go tuna fishing on Saturday, we really did, but it wasn't meant to be. The aftermath of Hurricane Emily left horrendous seas, plus 20 knot winds out of the west, making conditions untenable. At 5 a.m. the captain of the boat agreed to reschedule us for October rather than see us hanging over the rail all day. Oh well. But since we were close to the coast anyway, we made a sojourn to the Foxwoods casino in Ledyard, there to admire their new addition and wager a few pence. Much better than chumming with my breakfast, that's for sure!

Lawrenson, Trustee of the Baluster Realty Trust, under a Declaration of Trust dated March 11, 1985, and recorded in Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds, Book 2977, Page 20, to The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank, a corporation duly organized under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and having a principal place of business in Lowell, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, dated February 21, 1990, and recorded in the Middlesex County (Northern District) Registry of Deeds, Book 5155, Page 179, of which mortgage The Lowell Five Cent Savings Bank is the present holder, for breach of conditions of said mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing same, will be sold at public auction on Monday, September 27, 1993, at 10:00 a.m., on the premises at Lot 1 Concord Street and Lot 4 Federal Street (as shown on Plan recorded in Plan Book 160, Plan 40 of the Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds), Wilmington, Massachusetts, the premises described in said mortgage, subject to the terms set forth herein.

The mortgaged premises are described as follows:

"Two certain lots of land, with the buildings thereon, in Wilmington, Middlesex County, Massachusetts, being shown as Lot 1 (containing 29,458 square feet, more or less) and Lot 4 (containing 18.15 acres more or less) as shown on a plan entitled, "Plan of Land in Wilmington, MA (Middlesex County), Scale: 1 in. = 100 ft.; Date: April 7, 1987; Beals and Thomas, Inc., Two Westborough Business Park, 200 Friberg Parkway, Westborough, Massachusetts 01581," which plan is recorded in Middlesex North District Registry of Deeds, Plan Book 160, Plan 40, to which plan reference may be made for a more particular description of said lots.

Said Lot 4 is conveyed together with passageway rights in common with others and in accordance with the terms set forth in deed from Centennial Properties, Inc. to Ronald L. Rossetti, Trustee of FI-W Realty Trust, dated June 7, 1976 and recorded with said Registry, Book 2200, Page 26.

Said premises will be sold subject to any and all outstanding taxes, tax titles, municipal liens, betterments or assessments, if any, subject to rights of the United States of America and/or its subsidiaries, if any; subject to rights of tenants or parties in possession, if any; and subject to all conditions of the title.

In the event the successful bidder at the foreclosure sale shall default in purchasing the within-described property according to the terms of this Notice of Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate and/or the terms of the Memorandum of Sale to be executed at the time of the foreclosure auction, the Mortgagee reserves the right to sell the property by Foreclosure Deed to the second highest bidder provided that the second-highest bidder shall deposit with James A. Hall, Attorney for the Mortgagee, the amount of the required deposit as hereinafter set forth within three (3) days of written notice of default of the previous high bidder. The balance of the purchase price shall be paid within thirty (30) days thereafter, and paid in accordance with the Terms of Sale hereinafter set forth and subject to all additional terms set forth therein.

TERMS OF SALE: With regard to Lot 1 and Lot 4, the highest bidder in any single lot sale will be required to pay to the mortgagee the sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00) in cash or by certified check at the time and place of sale as earnest money. The balance is to be paid in cash or by certified check within thirty (30) days thereafter and delivered to James A. Hall, Attorney for the Mortgagee, at 35 Paige Street, Lowell, Massachusetts 01852, during his normal business hours. Upon full payment of the purchase price by the successful bidder, the deed shall be taken and recorded by such purchaser. The purchaser in any single lot sale or in the cumulative lot sale, as the case may be, will be responsible for any and all recording or closing charges, including deed documentary transfer stamps. Other terms, if any, shall be announced at the sale.

Bicycle accidents injure 200,000 yearly

Thousands of children around the nation are about to spend the first days of school in a hospital room instead of a classroom.

The National Head Injury foundation, Inc., estimates that 200,000 children are hospitalized each year with head trauma many will suffer severe lifelong disabilities.

"The biggest cause of brain injury in school age children is bicycle related accidents," said Steven B. DeMaranville, executive director of Wilmington Woods. "With the opening of school, children around the nation increase their risk of head injury because they bike without a helmet."

The National Head Injury Foundation estimates that only two percent of elementary and high school children wear helmets when they bike ride.

"Bike helmets should join notebooks and pencils as required school supplies," Demaranville said.

"The majority of bicycle accidents occur at intersections close to the child's home," he said. "Children tend to ride right through intersections without stopping or even looking to see if there's any oncoming traffic."

"Parents need to realize that a bicycle is a child's first vehicle, a serious piece of equipment,": DeMaranville said. "You have to teach your children to abide by traffic signals and signs and to develop good safety habits, just as if they were operating a motor vehicle."

The fit of both the helmet and the bicycle also are important safety precautions often neglected.

"If the bike helmet doesn't fit properly, it could slip down in front of the youngster's eyes and cause an accident,:" DeMaranville explained. "You should never borrow someone else's bike helmet."

He also said that parents should make sure youngsters' don't ride bikes that are too big - it's too easy to lose control.

"The death toll from bike accidents in young children is greater than from poisoning or from falls," he said. "For older children, those age 15 to 24, the leading cause of head injury is automobile accidents."

"Every 15 seconds, someone in the U.S. gets a head injury," Demaranville explained. "Traumatic brain injury is the number one killer and disabler of American youth, the National Head Injury Foundation estimates. The economic cost alone of taking care of these people is nearly $25 billion each year."

According to the World Health Organization, there have been more American fatalities from head injuries in the past dozen years than in all the wars in which the United States has fought.

"People often believe that these kinds of injuries happen at random," DeMaranville said. "The truth is that most of these injuries are predictable and preventable."

Wilmington Woods is operated by The Mediplex Group, a provider of health care services throughout the United States.

Robert Harnden to visit Wilmington

by Capt. Larz Neilson

Robert C. Harnden of Memphis, Tennessee has informed the Town Crier that he is planning to visit Wilmington sometime in October or November. A retired chemist, he plans to visit Harnden sites in Wilmington and in Maine, where his family also lived.

He is not planning to seek the "pirate's" gold in Devil's Den, off Andover Road. That story, entirely fictitious, was told by Mary Jaquith Harnden to her children around 1730.

She told her children that Capt. Kidd, who was hung for piracy, had driven an oxcart up Andover Road about 1700 and hidden gold in the cave on the west side, across from the highway department garage. The oxcart, she said, was seen by Harnden children living in the house which existed in those days at what is now 67 High Street.

Mr. Harnden can visit the Harnden Tavern, the site of the Harnden Massacre (1705) by Abnaki Indians, and other homes of the family, and can read of the capture of Jefferson Davis, former president of the Confederate States by Lt. Col. Harnden, Michigan Cavalry.

3,426 pounds of Great White

By KEN MAGUIRE

A 17-foot, 3,426-pound Great White shark recently made its way through the area, but it didn't quite pack the bite it once did.

That is because the JAWS-like creature is a fiberglass replica of the one caught in 1986 by a New York resident. While in the Middlesex East neighborhood, it stopped by New England Taxidermy in Wakefield for a few repairs.

To date, the shark is the largest fish ever caught by means of rod and reel. And believe it or not, the little fella was reeled in just 20 miles off the coast of Long Island, only hours south of the Bay State.

But sharks don't like cold water, right? Wrong.

The fact that few people realize sharks often swim in cold North Atlantic waters is a common misconception, and not an isolated one either, says New England Taxidermy shop manager John Casoli.

Casoli said many people have misconceptions about fishing, hunting, and taxidermy in general. He said taxidermy is an art, much like painting or sculpting, which is something few people realize.

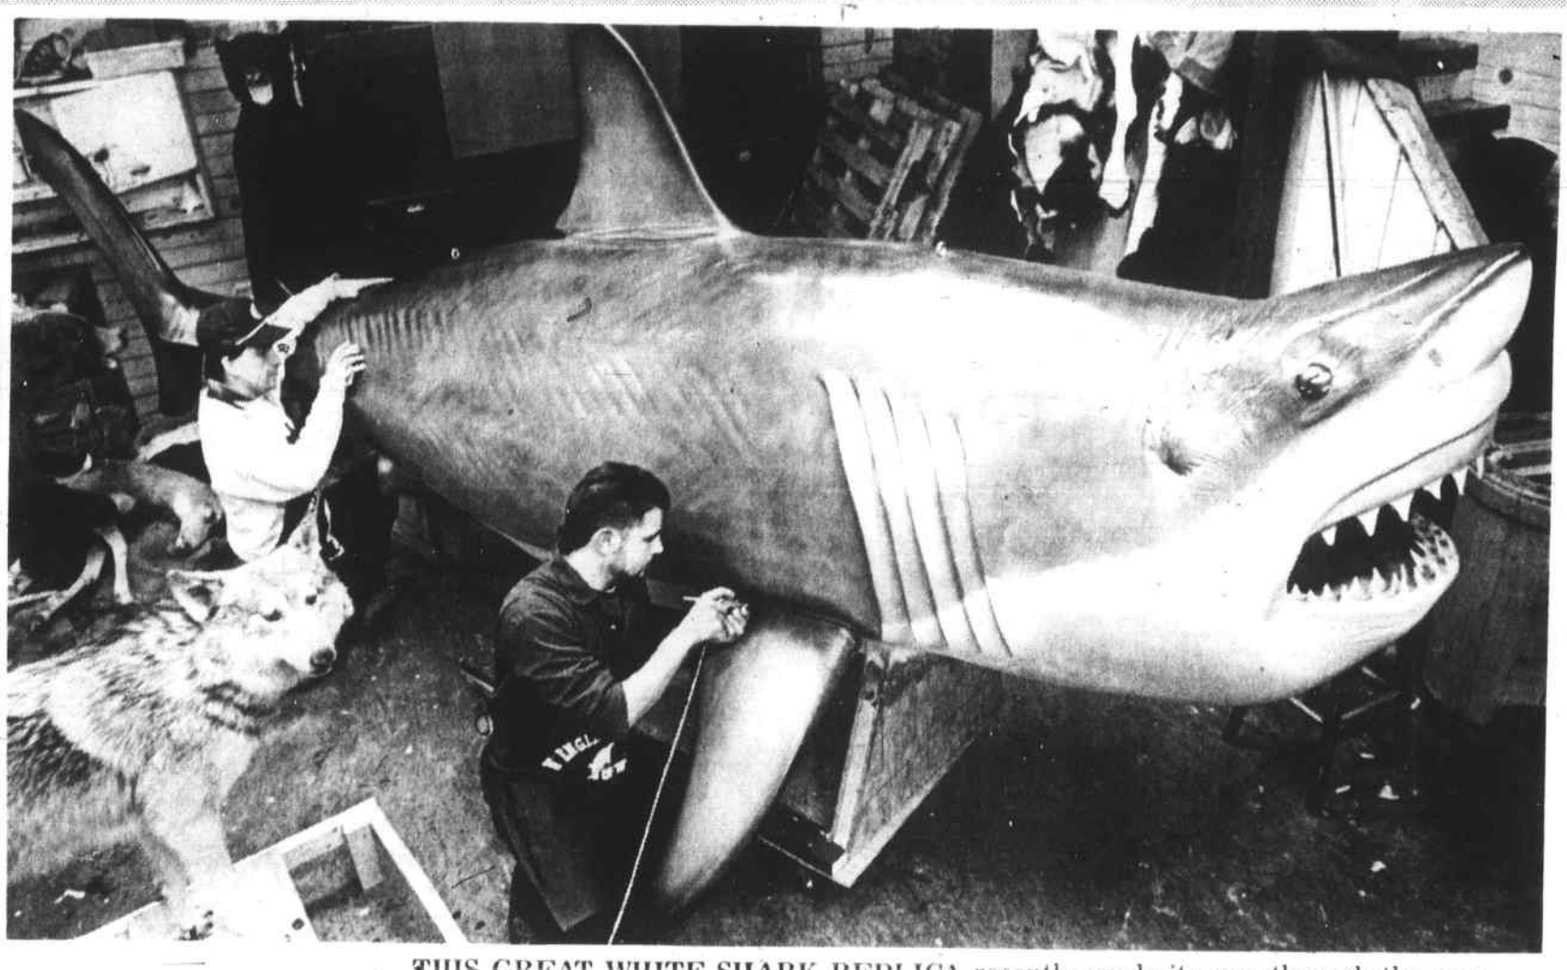

"A lot of people picture taxidermists to be squeegying blood across the floor," Casoli said in a recent interview. "It's really very clean."

Dusty, yes. Clean, maybe. Bloody, not even close.

A quick glance around the workshop reveals a wide variety of mounted animals. Boar, fish, birds, bear, and deer mounts hang all over the walls, awaiting customer pickup. Other mounts are strewn across the floor, being prepped and worked on. Animals are everywhere, but there is no blood and no Grim Reaper in the corner.

For a typical deer mount, which Casoli worked on while explaining his craft, a cast of the head is bought from a supplier, it's sanded down, and then shaped. Casoli shapes it with the skin, attaching the original antlers and glass eyes. Of course, precision and detail are included as well.

"Taxidermy is considered an art form," Casoli said. "The eyes are the most expressive part of the mount. The mount needs to have some sort of expression to bring it to life. You have to know what you're doing from start to finish."

THIS GREAT WHITE SHARK REPLICA recently made its way through the area, stopping in at a local taxidermy shop for repairs. The real thing weighed 3,426 lbs and was 17 feet long, caught by rod and reel off the coast of Long Island. Pictured here at work are Dana DiPaolo (l) owner of New England Taxidermy in Wakefield, and John Casoli, shop manager. (Don Young photo)

Shark Replica

On the subject of hunting, obviously vital to the taxidermy industry, Casoli expressed his opinion. He said that while some people advocate animal rights, he sees hunting as a necessity and explained some facts that he said most people do not know.

"Anytime you get an overabundance of one species, you get disease," he explained. He said hunting eliminates the onset of disease, keeps many animals from starving to death, raises money for the state (through licensing) and provides activity for sportsmen.

Most hunters, Casoli says are sportsmen who care about animals and the future of wildlife. For every license sold, he said, a small percentage of the money is devoted specifically to wildlife development.

"The deer population in Massachusetts is more today than it was when the pilgrims settled here," he said. "People don't realize that there's more deer in Massachusetts (per capita) than up north in the big woods" of Maine and New Hampshire.

Although he has no problem with protesters, Casoli said animal rights groups can be just as cruel as they allege hunters to be.

For the Witt's, volunteering is "All in The Family"

Among the "family" of more than 400 volunteers at Winchester Hospital are four members of a real-life family who commit their time to the hospital and its patients on a regular basis. They are the Witts - mother Karen, daughter Andrea and sons Tom and Karl - - a Winchester family for whom volunteering is "a must with us," according to Mrs. Witt.

"When Karl (the youngest) went into first grade, I had some time on my hands," says Mrs. Witt. "I read about volunteer opportunities at Winchester Hospital in the newspaper, so I got involved."

That was seven years ago. Today, Mrs. Witt works one day a week as a messenger, which entails transporting patients to and from the floors, delivering medications from the pharmacy or tests to the lab, and assisting patients when they are discharged. All three of the Witt children also devote a morning a week to the hospital.

This year marks Andrea's fourth summer as a Winchester Hospital volunteer. A high school senior, she started by working in the hospital coffee shop for two summers and has now worked in Central Registration for two summers where she greets and registers incoming patients.

"It's fun," she says. "I enjoy the chance to meet people of all ages, and there are a lot of young people who are neat to work with."

Like their mother, Tom and Karl volunteer their time to the messenger service. Tom, a high school sophomore is in his third summer at the hospital, and Karl, who will be 14 in January, just started this summer.

"It's an incredible learning experience for the junior volunteers," says Nancy McKersie, coordinator of the junior volunteer program at Winchester Hospital which this summer boasts 150 participants. "The juniors have a good time, although I think they find that they have to work harder than they thought! They also like the interaction with people their age for other schools," she adds.

"Adults, too, get a great deal of satisfaction out of being a volunteer and being of service," she continues. "We're fortunate to have a large and loyal group of volunteers."

There are numerous opportunities for volunteer work at Winchester Hospital, McKersie explains.

"We're recruiting now for fall," she points out. "We are looking for adults to work in all capacities including the messenger service, central registration, the coffee shop, ambulatory care, oncology, the information desks, even the new Reading Health Center. We especially need men volunteers in X-ray transport," she adds. "And we have a new concierge service that directs visitors through the hospital." McKersie notes that a minimum commitment of one half-day a week is appreciated.

Other volunteer opportunities include clerical posts in virtually all departments and nursing units, the coffee cart which brings refreshments to patients on the floors, and central service which handles the sterilization and delivery of equipment.

For junior volunteers, there are spots available after school, from 3 to 5 p.m. and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on weekends.

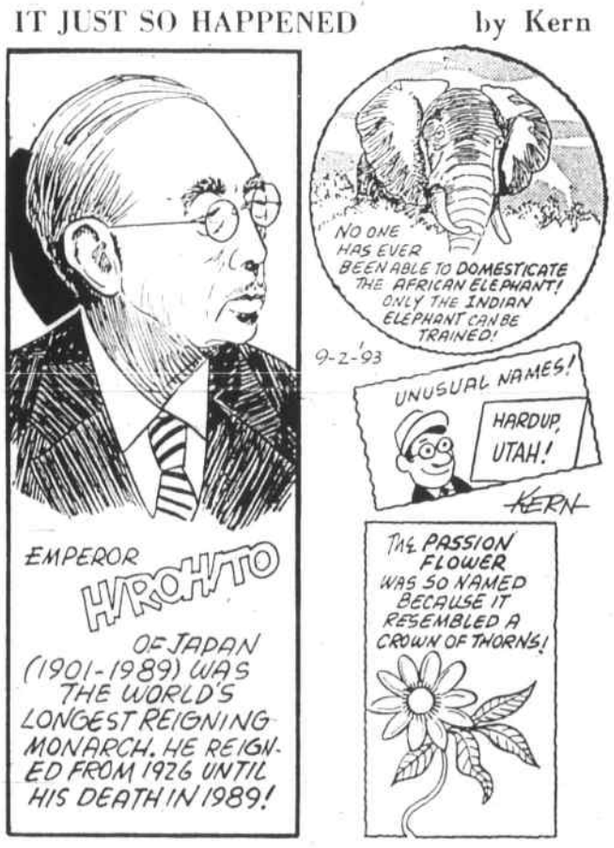

"I love every minute of it," says Karen of her experience as a Winchester Hospital volunteer. "I am meeting people who really care. I give and get the personal satisfaction of doing good for others."

To join the volunteer family at Winchester Hospital, call the Volunteer Office at (617) 756-2625.

60 and over women's group

New England Memorial Hospital now offers a 10-week group for women 60 and older to provide them with an opportunity to get support from others at the same stage of life. The group will meet Wednesday afternoons beginning mid-September. Sessions may be covered by an individual's health plan. For more information or to set up a pre-group interview, call Dr. Beth Pinals at (617) 979-7416.

About the Towns

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

WINCHESTER AIMS FOR NATIONAL ATTENTION - About 10 members of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, including President Cathie Jackson and Area Coordinator Debbie Taylor-Smith, have already met with representatives of The Arthur Griffin Center for Photographic Art to learn more about its plans for a major four-color brochure designed to promote picturesque Winchester and the Griffin Center on the national and international scene.

The goal is to attract the attention of or visits from tourists, convention and business travelers, other museums and art organizations, and a broad New England audience.

It is expected that each contributing organization's share of the brochure will run between $125 and $300, depending on the number of participants. For information on the brochure and on just how firm the September 8th deadline is, call center director Damon Reed at (617)729-1158.

READING URGES SUPPORT FOR "ADOPT-A-KID" - Reading's Human Services Department is again coordinating an adopt-a-kid program to match needy children with citizens who would like to help them obtain back-to-school clothes.

Reading Human Services Director Ruth Cogan reports there are 49 such needy families in Reading.

Clothing can be purchased, gift certificates donated or money directly given to the Human Services Department relevant revolving fund.

For more information, call Cogan at (617) 942-9061.

WOBURN APPROVES MOST CINEMA EXPANSION - The Woburn City Council has approved seven of eight traffic upgrades which are part of National Amusements' ongoing attempt to expand its Woburn cinema complex.

According to the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle," the approved measures will allow National to install sidewalks in certain areas; put down specific turning lanes into and out of the cinemas on Main Street and Middlesex Canal Drive; put up a traffic-signal at that intersection; and install no-parking signs in certain areas.

Also approved is a "cinemas next right" sign for True Place off Main Street, just after the 128 rotary - you know, the place where you always turn right.

With the widening of Main Street not approved, National will have to reconsider its various traffic flow plans.

In 1989, National requested four additional screens, 85,000-square-feet of retail development, and a 125-room hotel. The settlement reached between National and the Woburn City Council allows for four additional screens on the Showcase lot.

Stay tuned for additional coming attractions. The state has to review the project. Or should we say "preview"?

LYNNFIELD DEALS WITH ITS POPULARITY ... in the form of 15,000 cars on Main Street per day. According to Lynnfield Police Chief Paul Romano in the Lynnfield "Villager," outside of its highways, Main Street is the most heavily used road in town: in the past 10 years, its traffic volume has probably increased four- or fivefold.

The problem, he says, is volume, not speed. And for the record, most of the speeders are locals.

The comments were made when Public Works Director Allen Caproni recently unveiled his suggested Main Street traffic changes to about 25 residents and business owners whose opinions were mixed on the proposed changes to Lynnfield

Society to Prevent Cruelty to

Duck season opens on October 20, and a little over one month later - the first Monday after Thanksgiving - deer season opens. With those dates quickly approaching, the state is concerned about safety, and rightly so. At least once every year there is the unfortunate report of a hunter killed accidentally, whether it be in the woods or while cleaning a weapon at home.

Across the state, hunter safety classes are beginning this week and next. In this area, the Massachusetts Hunter Education Instructors is holding a "Basic Hunter Education" course at the Danvers Fish and Game Club in Middleton. Anyone can attend and the classes are free.

State Environmental Police (Hunter Education Bureau) Sgt. Bill Chmura said the classes "are very basic and stress safety." In addition to hunter safety, other classes offered include Map and Compass, Muzzle Loading, and Waterfall Identification. Most classes are 12 hours in length and are attended by all kinds of people, young and old.

"You have 12-year-old kids and their 80-year-old grandfathers in the classes," Chmura said.

A state Hunter Education Certificate is provided to course graduates (14 and over). The certificate serves two legal purposes. It allows people 15 to 18 years old to hunt alone on their first Massachusetts hunting license. And the certificate is often necessary to purchase a hunting license from other states, or Canada.

People will always have different opinions, but safety seems to be the one thing everyone agrees upon. For more information on the classes, call the program office at (508) 792-7434.

Animals) kills more in one day than hunters do all week," he said. "As much as people think hunting and fishing is taking away from nature, if it's done ethically, it's good. As far as poachers are concerned, I'd turn them in any day, they give us all a bad name."

Not quite seeing eye to eye with Casoli's views is MSPCA Wildlife Specialist Jennifer Lewis, who cited differences in the method of killing.

"Hunters kill living creatures for fun," said Lewis, who is also the MSPCA Asst. Dir. of the Animal Welfare and Legislative Issues Dept. "Hunting subjects animals to pain. We use lethal injection. It's very painless. We regret deeply that we have to put these animals (cats and dogs) down, but there are simply not enough homes."

While hunting in Canada about five years ago, Casoli weathered an ice storm to shoot an 8-point Buck, which he later mounted. He said the ice clinging across its back and down its face was an unforgettable sight. "It was neat to see," he said." The mount reflected what he remembered of the Buck, with ice along its back, neck, eyes and lashes.

As for their visiting shark, Casoli said it is "probably the biggest, most impressive" animal he has ever worked on. He's been in the business for 12 years, along with the shop's owner Dana DiPaolo. The two attended a taxidermy school 15 years ago in Wisconsin.

The replica's teeth, all four rows, are the originals. Sharks continually replace their teeth throughout their lives.

Casoli said fish are the most common mounts, mainly because they can be hunted year round, with no open or closed seasons, unlike big game animals. And not too far off is the opening of some very popular hunting seasons.

The Harriet Hoctor Ballet School

442 Main Street, Woburn Mary B. Vasel, Director

IS READY TO DANCE INTO ITS 43rd SEASON!!

The Harriet Hoctor Ballet School IS NOT A "DANCE RECITAL/COMPETITION SCHOOL" which spends students' class time & money on rehearsals & expensive costumes. Our alternative to recitals is tastefully done class & dance demonstrations to give families the opportunity to see their dancer at the end of the year. In this way, during most of the dance year, our efforts are directed toward building a secure foundation in-ballet technique and improving skills. Whether a serious dancer or a student who dances to help other talents, or just for grace, poise and enjoyment, each and every one of our students are important to us. The development & achievements of many of our students over the years has earned our school a very fine reputation.

ALLIGATOR WRESTLING SHOW IN LOWELL

The Kachunga and the Alligator Show will be presented several times daily at Riverfest in Lowell from September 8th through 12th.

This show began in 1982 as a public awareness program using forms of Florida wildlife such as alligators, panthers, birds of prey and snakes to educate the school children of Florida. Since the show is so unique, there is a dynamic impact on the audiences that view the show.

In addition to public awareness, the act is also involved in the preservation of wildlife to the extent that they have formed a non-profit organization and rehabilitation facility which is dedicated to nursing injured and sick animals back to their health. When recovered, animals can be released back into the wild. An on-staff veterinarian oversees all of the operations. With this point in mind, it's very important to present this show without any threat to the animals involved.

The 20 minute shows feature Kachunga and an eight to nine foot alligator. The act presented in the show is dangerous, but humor and audience participation are included, so that it becomes a fun, educational and family orientated show. Kachunga and the Alligator Show will be an outstanding feature of Riverfest.

Picture opportunities with the alligator will be available. All this at Riverfest, September 8-12, Regatta Field, Rte. 113, Lowell. For further information please call 1-800-443-3332.

by Phyllis Nissen

IF YOU NEED A RIDE TO AMHERST, START LOOKING IN READING, THE VILLAGE OF - The Reading High Guidance Department reports that 34 members of the Reading High Class of '93 are attending the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

A Burlington parent reports that about 27 members of the Burlington High Class of '93, including his son, have chosen UMass-Amherst.

The Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle" reports that 14 members of Wakefield's Class of '93 chose UMass-Amherst, making it the most popular choice in town.

And a Malden High parent reports that three Malden High students will be UMass freshmen this year.

Send us statistics from your city or town - this could be interesting.

GRANDMOTHER Betty Moore pushes granddaughter Kelliann Coleman (4) on swings at Stoneham playground as Summer comes to a close.

MELROSE MIDDLE SCHOOL PRINCIPAL RESIGNS SUDDENLY - Melrose Middle School Principal and Lynnfield resident Anthony LaRosa recently handed in a "notice of resignation for the purposes of retirement." LaRosa is a deputy sheriff in the East Cambridge office of Sheriff John McGonigle which is the subject of an FBI probe, according to one Melrose newspaper.

A Melrose teacher since 1964, LaRosa had been middle school principal since the early '80's. He had expressed interest in this year's state early retirement incentive which the Melrose School Committee later voted down.

LaRosa is not the only Melrose veteran who has announced an immediate or upcoming retirement. Superintendent of Schools Dr. David Driscoll resigned as of July 1st to become state deputy commissioner of education, leaving Dr. Richard Incerto Acting Superintendent of Schools for the next nine to 12 months; and Horace Mann Principal Kathleen Buckley left to become assistant superintendent in Winchester.

Other administrators who announced that they would retire within the next three years are: Middle School Assistant Principal William Nagle (1995); High School Principal Claude Croston and Assistant Principal James Frontero; Lincoln School Principal Robert Fancy; and Roosevelt School Principal Joe Bateman.

There is talk of restructuring the school system.

TEWKSBURY ADVERTISES FOR SCHOOL COUNCIL MEMBERS - The Tewksbury School Department has placed the following block ad in the Tewksbury edition of the "Town Crier":

"Tewksbury Public Schools School Councils - The Tewksbury School Committee and the Administration invites all interested citizens to serve as members of our school councils at the Tewksbury Memorial High School, John W. Wynn Middle School, Heath Brook School, Loella F. Dewing Schools, Louise Davy Trahan School and the North Street School.

"School Councils have been established through the Educational Reform Act of 1993 to assist schools in the adoption of educational goals, the identification of educational needs, the review of annual budget and the formation of a school improvement plan for each school.

"Interested citizens should respond in writing on or" - before? - "Friday, September 10, 1993 to Christine L. McGrath, Ph.D., Superintendent of Schools, Center School, 139 Pleasant Street, Tewksbury, MA 01876.

"Please identify the specific school council on which you wish to serve."

ANTHONY MANCONI

"Stay away from the dancing halls; the people there are no good at all, that's where I met your father, Bridget darling." They are some of the words of a humorous song sung years ago. They weren't true, of course, because ballroom dancers are some of the finest people I know.

I remember when men would shower and shave and put on their best suits. The women, God bless them, would shampoo their hair and comb it in style then put on their finest dresses, put on their dancing shoes and head for one of the many ballrooms in our area.

I remember one night at the Wonderland Ballroom, during intermission, Frank Renda stuck a napkin down into a trombone. When the band came back to resume playing, the trombonist had a problem getting a sound out of his instrument. So, with one supreme effort, he blew into the trombone sending the napkin out and it sailed over the heads of the dancers in the dimly lit ballroom. Three young ladies fainted thinking a bat was flying over them.

A handsome young doctor was told by his girl friend that she wanted to break off their engagement. "Okay," he said, "return the ring I gave you and all the other gifts, too." She refused, so, he sent her a bill for 85 house calls... The Chinese invented acupuncture. It's an art of sticking needles in various parts of the body to relieve or cure many illnesses. Jimmy Fanikos said, "Of course it works. Have you even seen a porcupine with arthritis?"

I remember taking a short cut with my pal, Joe Aldo, as we walked to Revere High School. We went through a field and in climbing over a fence I ripped the seat of my pants. I asked Joey for a safety pin but he had none. We continued on to school anyway. I entered my classroom late. Miss Ellison looked up at the clock, then at me and said, "I see you're a little behind this morning, Anthony." I blushed from ear to ear and blurted out, "You wouldn't have, Miss Ellison, if my pal Joey had a safety pin!"

Super Star Bobby Orr said, "Remember, winning is great but participating, being active and having fun is more important for kids playing any sport." Okay, Bobby, now try telling that to a "violently vocal alumni."

PERSONALITY WINNERS: Mark T. Kelly, John R. Lautzenheiser, Joseph Pirone, Ernest P. Sacco and John MacCurtin, Jr., all of READING; Gina M. Assetta, Wendy Bain, Jeffrey Capobianco, M. Also, Crystal LeBlanc, Bill and Mary Ann Conlon, Chris Earle, Brian Huse, Joseph Boudreau, all of TEWKSBURY; Sgt. Tom Roarke, Frank LeMoure, Jimmy and Bettsy Geary, Karol and Michael McLaughlin and Wendy Rebidue, all of LYNNFIELD; Bob Dunn, Fire Dept. Capt. David Harlow, Kathi Lee, Erich Simmons, Alex Murray and John DeStefano, all of NORTH READING; Doreen Donna-rumma, Rich Griffin, Mike Walsh, Chris Kisich, Andrew Joy and Kurt Gaudet, all of MALDEN; Chris Buttimer, Eddie and Lina Kaestner, Al and Lu Serino, Judy Tenaglia, Walter Nolan and Jon Norton, all of MELROSE; Anthony DiFranco, Jon Glionna, Joe Farnham, Shawn Bates and Justin Crisafulli, all of MEDFORD.

A truck driver was having a cup of coffee and a sandwich in a diner on Route 66. Three motorcycle cowboys parked their bikes and barged into the diner. One of them dipped his greasy finger into the coffee cup, the second one picked u the sandwich, took a bite and slapped the rest down. The third one of the three stoogies just laughed. The meek truck driver didn't say a word, got up, paid the waitress, leaving a generous tip, and walked out. "He wasn't much of a man, was he?" one of them shouted. The waitress, looking out the window replied, "He isn't much of a truck driver either! He just drove over three Harley Davidson motorcycles!"

Shelley Winters said, "In Hollywood, all marriages are happy. It's trying to live together afterwards that causes all the problems.

The time of "rapid change" is when a child is between 13 and 17. That's when parents age as much as 20 years... I asked Bill Masiello (an optician) if wearing glasses would let me look intelligent. Bill smiled and said, "With you, Chipper, it would be an 'optical illusion'."... Jimmy Quinno said, "Anyone who goes to a psychiatrist ought to have his head examined."

A successful man is one who makes more money than his wife can spend. A successful woman is one who can marry such a man... George Gould told his analyst, "I have this problem. I met this beautiful blonde bombshell and we get along just fine. We like the same restaurants, plays and books." The analyst said, "I don't see where there's a problem." "Oh yeah?" George exclaimed, "that's because you never met her husband."

The three ages of men and women are "childhood," "adulthood," and "You're looking wonderful!"... I used to be the guest speaker at many Kiwanis, Elks and VFW luncheons. Not anymore, after what happened at a Beachmont VFW luncheon meeting. I thought I had given a humorous talk but Tony Stack didn't agree. "Didn't you hear the applause?" I asked. "Yes," Tony replied, "that was for those who were doing the 'Booing'!"

Larry Flynn locked his car with the keys in it. Johnny Ave, Blackie Vega and Sal DiCarlo came out of Mickey's Parlor to help. Blackie had a slim jim, Johnny had a coat hanger and Sal had a double decker ham sandwich. They had no success in opening the car door. Larry shouted, "You idiots better hurry up. It's starting to rain and my convertible has the top down."

Kathy and I went to a school play that had a happy ending. Everybody was glad it was over!... Joe Ravida borrowed $40,000 to study law. He graduated, passed the bar and the very first case he got was when his Uncle John sued him for the $40,000... I cant' figure out why anyone would drive to his broker's office in a Lincoln, Mercedes or Cadillac to get financial advice from someone who came to work on a bus carrying a brown bag lunch.

I learned early in life why English is called the Mother Tongue; my father never got to use it.

These will be taking place on Wednesday, September 8, 6 to 9 p.m. and Sunday, September 12, 2 to 5 p.m., at the Centre United Methodist Church on the corner of Pleasant and Washington streets in Malden.

The play will be presented on November 12, 13 and 14 in the Jenkins Auditorium of Malden High School. This is being done by Tri-CAP in association with Stage One which is headed by Warren Lever. He has been directing and producing shows in the tri-city area for over 20 years. Mr. Lever is known for being very committed to community theater and enjoys working with the area's young people.

The Berkshire's are an exciting fall getaway

The Berkshires are an exciting getaway any season of the year, but no season is more beautiful than fall. A whole host of colors...reds, golds, and yellows... dazzle the eyes from the middle of September to the end of October. There are also wonderful things to do, harvest festivals, fall foliage parades, museums, historic sites, and plenty of recreational fun. New this year is the Western Massachusetts Scarecrows Contest. From Northampton to Greenfield to the Berkshires, this sculpture contest is sure to please everyone interested in traditional, contemporary, or frightening scarecrows. Winners will be announced at the end of September for perfect fall foliage viewing.

Fall is a great time to visit western Massachusetts with long lazy days and crisp nights. Located just two and one half hours from New York City and Boston, the Berkshires are an ideal place to unwind. Wide open spaces and small town charm are of special appeal to city dwellers and workers. Accommodations and dining fare are available in a vast array of choices and prices from simple to family to exotic to extraordinary.

PERFORMING ARTS

Summer in the Berkshires brings the symphony. Fall brings chamber music played in intimate spaces. South Mountain Concerts in Pittsfield offers the Beaux Arts Trio (9/12), Juilliard String Quarter (9/19), Cleveland String Quartet and Ying String Quartet (9/26), Emerson String Quartet (10/3), and Guarneri String Quartet (10/10). The Armstrong Chamber Music Series at the Town Hall Theatre in Lenox begins their series October 9.

Shakespeare & Company extends their summer season into November with plays performed in various spaces at The Mount. Live theatre continues year round at the Berkshire Public Theatre in Pittsfield.

ART MUSEUMS

Many museums of the Berkshires are open year-round: each deserves a special visit. In Williamstown one finds two complementary museums.

The Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute has a very large collection of impressionist art including over 40 paintings by Renoir as well as American art and sculpture plus an extensive collection of silver. The Clark's contribution to the Williams College bicentennial is the exhibition. The Clarks and Williams College through November 28, exploring the involvement of the Clark family with Williams College through three generations, beginning with Edward Clark (class of 1832). Their other show Il Buon Disegno: Master Drawings and Prints, covering six centuries, remains through January 2, 1994.

The Williams College Museum of Art focuses on contemporary and non-western art from a collection of over ten thousand works. This summer and fall, the Williams College Museum of Art celebrates the bicentennial of Williams College with the Third Williams Alumni Loan Exhibition: 200 Years of American Art Selected from Alumni Collections. An exhibition of two photography portfolios through October 3, The Indomitable Spirit and In a Dream with ten and eleven photographs respectively, completes their special exhibits.

In Pittsfield the Berkshire Museum features the recent three-dimensional works by Benigna Chilla in addition to their excellent permanent collections including many Hudson River School paintings, Berkshire Historical Collection, and Natural History Collection.

The new Norman Rockwell Museum in Stockbridge opened in April. It features the world's largest collection of original paintings by America's favorite illustrator plus the studio in which he created the pieces. It is fascinating to see the many photos and props used in their creation. The Berkshire Scenic Railway Museum offers short rides on historic train cars along with their collection of train memorabilia.

HISTORIC SITES

Hancock Shaker Village offers special events throughout the season on this 1200 acre site with 20 restored Shaker buildings. On September 18 and 25, and October 2, 9 and 16, one can enjoy an evening tour of selected buildings and a candlelight dinner in the Believers' Dining Room, hosted by costumed interpreters, followed by a Shaker music program. The Chesterwood Contemporary Sculpture Show is laid out on the lawns and through the woodland walk on Daniel Chester French's seasonal estate where he sculpted the seated Lincoln for Washington's Lincoln Memorial. This show lasts through October.

Edith Wharton's home, The Mount in Lenox; Herman Melville's home, Arrowhead in Pittsfield; Naumkeag and the Mission House in Stockbridge; the Colonel Ashley House in Ashley Falls; and the Bidwell House in Monterey are also house museums. These stately Colonial and Victorian homes are fascinating to visit. Their gardens and furnishings give us a glimpse of by-gone eras.

CALENDAR

Some 25 carts from the Colonial Carriage Society participate. Each is different. Many drivers and passengers wear turn-of-the-century garb.

"Our Service Speaks Louder Than Words"

A great many banks tell you lots of things which you may find somewhat confusing when you're trying to finance your home. It's almost as if they don't want you to understand what happens during the mortgage process.

That's where we're different! We figure the more you know about financing your home, the more you'll want to do business with us. We spell things out in plain English.

When you're ready for a home loan, call the bank that does mortgages best...

Linden Tree opens ninth season

On Saturday, September 11th, the Linden Tree Coffeehouse monthly series of acoustic music concerts will resume for its ninth season. Area folk music fans of all ages have come to enjoy the more than two hours of great entertainment in a friendly and cozy atmosphere.

This month's show will feature Steve Brennan and Priscilla Hendrick who were snowed out by the blizzard last March.

Bringing humor, insight, good will, and just a touch of irreverence on stage will be singer-songwriter Steve Brennan. The native New Englander has been busy playing at area coffeehouses, sharing the stage with Cheryl Wheeler, Bill Staines, Greg Brown and others.

Brennan is currently working on his soon to be released second album of original material. One cut, "I Know This Road," is on a recent Fast Folk album and has been heard on the local folk music radio programs. Brennan originally played at one of the Linden Tree's famous "open mike" about six years ago. This will be his third Wakefield appearance as a featured performer.

Also returning to the Linden Tree is the talented and funny Priscilla DiDonato Hendrick of Wakefield. She was the unanimous winner of the Linden Tree's first annual Holiday Potpourri Talent Contest last December. She has been a folksinger touring the USA with MGM Recording Artists, "The Ultimate Spinach." More recently Hendrick was a historian and Texas Folkmusic demonstrator at the Institute of Texan Cultures and at the Alamo.

The evening show will begin at 8 p.m. with The Linden Tree's Sampler Set. Several unnamed surprise guests will perform. There are an extraordinary number of talented performers in the New England area, but a limited number of performance slots. "Open mikes" allow audiences to enjoy a sampling of their talents.

Steve Brennan

The Linden Tree Coffeehouse is located in the social hall of the Unitarian-Universalist Church, 326 Main St., Wakefield. Admission is $6. Doors open at 7:30 p.m. A variety of baked goods and beverages are available at each show. Volunteers are welcomed. For a copy of this year's schedule or more information call 246-2836.

Peter Pan

From S-8

demand. He notes record-breaking numbers of people served during the past year.

Cournoyer said, "Tri-CAP has been in the community now for 15 years. Despite this, the public does not fully realize all which the agency contributes to the local area. It is hoped the theater production will bring more attention to the important work done by my agency."

Tri-CAP is the official federally-designed anti-poverty agency of the area. In addition to serving the tri-cities of Malden, Medford and Everett, Tri-CAP also works in Stoneham, Melrose, Winchester, Woburn, Reading, North Reading and Wakefield.

Cournoyer is excited about the prospect of working with many local young children as cast members in the production. He said, "We hope the theater production will also bring attention to the plight of young children in poverty. It is probably not realized by the general public but that number has grown tremendously in the past decade."

Anyone interested in participating in the tryouts or volunteering help for "Peter Pan" should either report to the Centre United Methodist Church at the above noted times. Those requiring additional information can call Executive Director Ron Cournoyer or his assistant Sue Morse at (617) 322-4125. In Everett, Karen Simonelli can be also reached at (617) 387-8589.

Parenting program offered at NEMH

Many parents experience times when they are uncertain or frustrated with managing their children's behavior. Toddlers and older children can present challenges which parents often feel they don't know how to handle. New England Memorial Hospital offers an eight-week group for parents of children ages 2 to 12 years who would like support and guidance in becoming more effective parents.

Group members will learn useful and positive methods for improving their children's behavior and develop coping strategies to help feel more confident and successful as parents. Participants will also gain support from each other through supportive discussion and role play.

The Parenting Group will meet Tuesdays from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., beginning in September. The group leaders will be Abbie Seibert, Ph.D. and Chris Recklitis, Ph.D., members of the NEMH Department of Psychiatric Services. Sessions may be covered by a participant's health insurance plan. Those who would like more information or to register should contact either Dr. Seibert at (617) 979-7418 or Dr. Recklitis at (617) 979-7417.
